Mao's widow, radicals liquidated

HONG KONG (UPI) — Mao Tse-tung's widow and key radical elements in the Chinese Communist Party have been "liquidated," the official New China News Agency said Friday.

It was not clear from the New China News Agency translation if the word "liquidated" meant the four actualy were killed. Diplomatic analysts said it could, but they were reluctant to conclude that it did.

The agency said: "The party central committee headed by Chairman Hua Kuo-feng adopted resolute and decisive measures to crush the counter-revolutionary conspiratorial clique and liquidated a bane inside the party. This is a great example of putting into practice Chairman Mao's great theory of continuing the revolution under the dictatorship of the proletariat."

In an ironic twist, the report added, "it is a great victory for the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution and for Mao Tse-tung Thought." Madame Mao and her radical cohorts spearheaded the attacks which led to the purge of so many people during the Cultural Revolution 10 years ago.

The agency said that Madame Mao and three radicals known as the "Shanghai Mafia" had been eliminated "in accordance with Chairman Mao's behests."

The purge of Madame Mao (Chiang Ching), and the Shanghai trio — Wang Hung-wen, Chang Chun-Chiao and Yao Wen-yuan, — was announced officially for the first time in an NCNA dispatch on demonstrations in Peking Thursday by more than 1.5 million people.

Diplomatic analysts and intelligence sources said that despite widespread rumors and reports in recent days that the four had been executed, the best available information indicated that they were still alive, although one was wounded.

"This does not mean that they might not be executed if they have not been," one analyst said. "However, we have no information that would in-

IF THEY HAVE A PLACE to go, Arlington Heights senior citizens have a way to get there. Agnes Reitmeyer and several other elderly residents use the village-subsidized taxi service Thursdays to attend "Over 50" meetings at Pioneer Park. Others use it consistently to attend church and go shopping. As long as they stay within the village's boundaries, each trip costs them only 50 cents and the village pays $1. The program will cost the village about $24,000 this year.

'Just wonderful'—taxis for elderly

by BILL HILL

Snow flurries and blustery winds whipped across the parking lot at Pioneer Park, but elderly persons continued to arrive — some by car, others in a park district bus and many in taxi cabs.

Attendance at Thursday's "Over 50" club meeting was about the same as usual — more than 100 persons showed up to play cards and chat. The cold, bitter weather had not kept them home.

Some have their own cars, but most senior citizens in Arlington Heights must search for other means of transportation. An increasing number of them have turned to taxis because of a special transportaton program subsidized by the village.

"TO THEM IT'S freedom. It's a way of getting out of the house," said Delores Goedke, a member of the village's senior citizens commission and one of the leaders of the "Young at Heart" club, which meets monthly at the Our Lady of the Wayside church.

When the club was started, women from the church picked up club members, but now many of them use the subsidized taxi service, she said.

The village initiated the service in November 1974 when it received a federal grant. The "seed money" to get the program started was available for only nine months, leaving the total bill to the village since then.

The service, provided through an agreement with the Arington City Cab Co., is available to any resident over 65 who has obtained a transportation discount card through the Arlington Heights Health Dept. By showing the card, a senior citizen is allowed to ride anywhere within the village boundaries for only 50 cents. The village, subsequently, is billed $1 for each trip.

THE TAXI RIDES taken by senior citizens have cost the village more than $31,000 since the federal grant han out 15 months ago. With an average of 2,000 rides being taken a month, the village board appropriated $24,000 for the program for fiscal year 1976-77. But if ridership continues to increase, that allocation may be insufficient.

Recent ridership statistics show the transportation service has been costing the village an average of $2,300 a month the past six months, said Edward Geiss, the village's new human services coordinator.

More than 1,700 residents have the senior citizen transportation cards and more than 400 use their cards at least once a month, he said. A recent analysis of the program shows that most senior citizens use the service only once or twice a month, but a few average one to two trips a day. In August, one cardholder used the service 59 times, Geiss said.

SOME CRITICS of the program say such constant use of the transportation service is abusive, but often

Ford to make visit Tuesday to Woodfield

The Northwest suburbs will become the target of the presidential campaign Tuesday when President Ford and Democratic challenger Jimmy Carter visit the area.

A Ford campaign official told The Herald Thursday Ford will visit the Woodfield Shopping Center in Schaumburg Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. At the same hour Carter will be appearing less than 20 miles away at the Niles Township Jewish Congregation, 4500 Dempster St., Skokie.

The Ford campaign aide said Ford will spend Tuesday night at the Arlington Park Hilton in Arlington Heights. The aide said it would be the last campaign appearance in the area for Ford before the Nov. 2 election.

Russ Lewis, director of Woodfield public relations and shopping promotion, said Thursdy night he has spoken with White House officials and will meet with Secret Service agents and a press secretary within two days to arrange the Ford appearance.

"To my knowledge we've never had a president visit Woodfield before," Lewis said. "We're still in the discussion stage on the thing (visit). We're still working out some problems."

The last visit to the Northwest suburbs made by the chief executive was in early March when he addressed 5,000 persons in Buffalo Grove High School, 1100 W. Dundee Rd. Ford won the Illinois presidential primary election, edging out former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Tuesday Carter will be appearing on behalf of U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th, who is waging a hard fought campaign against Samuel Young. Carter will be making his first campaign appearance in the Northwest suburbs.

Ford's visit to Schaumburg will be preceded by a noon rally at the Ford City Shopping Center on the south side of Chicago.

The Tuesday appearance by both candidates will be only four days after tonight's last scheduled presidential debate. The topic of the last debate will be on any issue.

A Gallop poll released Thursday indicated that F has mustered up more support in his battle against the former Georgia governor by closing the gap to within 6 percentage points. Carter began the campaign in August with a 10 point bulge.

Ford starts a marathon cross-country campaign trek today not returning to the White House until election day.

Grant sought for bus for elderly

A Regional Transportation Authority grant that would double bus service for the elderly in Wheeling Township next year and provide evening transportation for the handicapped will be sought by the township board of auditors.

TOWNSHIP Auditor John Gilligan is preparing a final draft of the $40,000 grant application which will be sent to the RTA following township board approval at the Nov. 3 meeting.

Gilligan said about $25,000 of the grant would be used to expand the free bus service for senior citizens. The other $15,000 would be for evening bus service for the handicapped of Wheeling Township.

GILLIGAN SAID the senior citizens' bus service is "pretty much at capacity now."

"But there's much more that can be done in the area," Gilligan added.

Wheeling Township contracts with Suburban Shuttle Systems Inc. of Rolling Meadows to provide free bus service to township residents 60 years of age and older. A single shuttle bus operates on a regular route system within the township Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. A door-to-door bus service is provided on an advance reservation basis Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The bus service runs from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. under both the route and reservation systems.

THE ANNUAL COST of the shuttle bus is about $24,000. The additional $25,000 through an RTA grant would allow the township to contract for another bus, Ethel Kolerus, township su-

'Vote to have little effect on taxes'

by SHERYL JEDLINSKI

Residents of Prospect Heights Dist. 23 will go to the polls Dec. 11 to vote on a proposed 60-cent tax rate increase that district officials say will have little effect on residents' tax bills.

Community support of the referendum is needed if the district is to continue providing its present high level of education and special services to the district's children, said Gerald McGovern, assistant superintendent in Dist. 23.

Voter approval of the referendum would allow the board of education to increase the tax rate only in the education fund, from $1.60 to $100 equalized assessed valuation, where it has been since 1964, to $2.20 per $100.

IF THE REFERENDUM were passed, the board would have the authority to raise the district's tax rate 60 cents immediately, but school officials promise this would not occur.

"We're all taxpayers in the district too and we want to keep taxes down as much as anyone else does," said Board Pres. Melvin Lace.

The 60-cent increase in the education fund tax rate would be levied gradually over 6-years, Business Mgr. James Hendren said.

The over-all tax rate would not increase from $2.51 per $100 equalized assessed valuation because the tax rate in the bond and interest fund would drop as the board raised the education fund rate, he said.

As more and more bonds for construction of the district's schools are paid, less money will be needed in the bond and interest fund and the fund's tax rate will drop, Hendren said.

RATHER THAN allow this drop to decrease the district's over-all tax rate, the referendum would give the board the power to raise the tax rate in the education fund so the overall tax rate would remain the same, he said.

The current tax rate in the bond and interest fund is 46 cents per $100 equalized assessed valuation. By 1982 when all the presently outstanding bonds are expected to be paid off, the bond and interest fund tax rate should be zero and the education fund tax rate should have increased by at least 46 cents, Hendren said.

"We're just changing our emphasis from paying off buildings to paying ongoing expenses like salaries and supplies," he said. "We're asking to be allowed to put our money where we need it, but still maintain our current overall tax rate."

Hendren said the district's enrollment has been relatively stable for the past seven years and no need for additional school construction is projected. The district's five existing schools easily could accommodate an enrollment growth of 200 students, though no such growth is projected, he said.

PROJECTED INCREASES in the district's assessed valuation also will help to keep the over-all tax rate stable, Hendren said. With the district only 60 per cent developed and considerable new construction already underway, he said he expects the district's $54 million assessed valuation to continue increasing as it has in past years.

Voter approval of the referendum in December will not provide an over night solution to the financial problems that have plagued Dist. 23 for the past decade.

Big Jim wins race to catch little Guv

GRAYVILLE, Ill. — Jim Thompson has been saying for 16 months that he is running for office harder than his opponent and Thursday he proved it.

Thompson and several top campaign aides were forced to sprint several blocks after the Republican's 18-week-old Irish setter puppy, Guv, began chasing a black Chihuahua.

The 30-minute scheduled campaign stop stretched to more than 45 while Thompson staffers and volunteers hunted for the dog, who has become a campaign fixture in recent weeks.

Guv was found about four blocks away from the central business district of this Southern Illinois community.

Thompson said later that the dog was unharmed and consumed four ham salad sandwiches at a lunch in Carmi. He added that he was unable to determine if the dog Guv was chasing was male or female.

"I know one thing it had to be smaller because if the dog was bigger it would have been chasing Guv," he added.

Forgery ring broken: police

Wheeling police believe they have crakced a major stolen check and forgery ring with the arrest of two Chicago residents. William Turner, 38, and Pamela Abbot, 24, were arrested by Wheeling police Wednesday after the couple allegedly attempted to cash checks totaling $660 at the Wheeling Trust and Savings Bank, Milwaukee Avenue and Dundee Road. Turner was charged with two counts of forgery and Mrs. Abbot with one count of forgery. Wheeling Police Chief M. O. Horcher Thursday said Turner is believed to be the "kingpin" of the ring which police officials said may extend throughout Cook, Lake and DuPage counties.

2 sought in extortion try

Buffalo Grove police are seeking two suspects in a $3,500 extortion scheme attempted Thursday against a Buffalo Grove woman. Police said the suspects saw a stakeout by a detective half a block from the victim's house and nearly ran the policeman down with their car as they fled the scene. The suspects were last seen in a light green Ford car with out-of-state license plates. The woman, middle-aged and recently widowed, was called twice by one of the suspects, who said he was a bank agent investigating tellers suspected of illegally taking money from the woman's account at the Buffalo Grove National Bank. The woman was instructed to take $3,500 cash from her account and give it to the "bank agent" outside the bank premises. She alerted bank officials who advised her to call the police. A 69-year-old Des Plaines woman was conned out of $1,300 Friday by a similar scheme. The suspect in that case showed official bank credentials.

Boost in drinking age eyed

Des Plaines may become a dry town for persons under 21 if the city adopts a proposal to raise the legal drinking age in the city. Ald. Alan Abrams, 8th, has proposed that the city raise the legal drinking age from 19 to 21 through the city's home-rule powers. He said the lower drinking age enables liquor to be obtained by children "who are far too young to have it." Calumet City, Berwyn, Joliet, Champaign-Urbana, and DeKalb already raised the drinking age through home-rule power and Oak Lawn is considering it. Rosemont raised the drinking age to 21 last year through a referendum. Municipalities in Illinois with populations of more than 25,000 have the authority to pass measures superseding state and county laws.

Rosalynn Carter wins 'Chili Poll'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Rosalynn Carter's chili recipe, "good by itself or served over rice," was an almost 4-to-1 favorite Wednesday over the chili dish submitted by Betty Ford in what was billed as "the Chili Poll."

Neither woman was present for the sampling, but each submitted their recipes for chili dishes, which were whipped up by local chefs and served to Civic Center workers, off-duty jurors, shoppers and passers-by at the Los Angeles Shopping Mall.

"Mrs. Carter's chili was superior, more tasty, tangy and spicy," said John Dempsey of New Mexico. "Mrs. Ford's as a bit too conservative, too middle-of-the-road."

Planes collide over Los Angeles; 2 die

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two private airplanes collided in flight over the west side of the city near the Pacific Ocean Thursday and flaming debris and parts of mangled bodies were scattered on a residential neighborhood that included an elementary school.

Two persons, one from each plane, were killed, authorities concluded after an exhaustive search of the area up until dusk. Coroner's deputies said the bodies were so mangled that it was thought at first that three were dead.

There were no reports of casualties, among those on the ground.

Debris rained on the yard of the Marina Light and Life Christian School where about 100 children were watching a volleyball game. No one was injured.

"The parts were coming down like confetti on the roof," said principal Raymond Roller. "I think the Lord was watching over us. It was just a miracle no one was hurt."

Some of the children began to cry when they saw parts of a human head fall to the ground.

A little boy, Skip Buchanan, 10, playing football in a park, saw it all and reported succinctly:

"There was a little plane and a big plane and the little one snipped the big plane's wing and tore off one motor. There were a whole bunch of things flying out. It was scary."

The big plane was a twin-engine executive-type Aerojet Commander Turboprop owned by Hughes Aircraft Co. which has a landing strip and a plant nearby.

Pilot Donald Bolt, 44, Westlake Village, Calif., was aboard alone. He had worked for Hughes for nine years.

His body was decapitated and hit the wall of the Venice Division station of the Los Angeles Police Department. The bulk of the wreckage hit the street in front of the station, causing the building to vibrate and breaking power connections.

The little plane was a single-engine Beechcraft Debonaire and also carried a lone pilot although it was first reported there was believed to be a student-pilot aboard also.

Hundreds of persons were attracted to the scene by the noise of the crashes and smoke from a fire in one of the planes. Fifty extra city police officers arrived to maintain order and help search for casualties.

Federal authorities began an immediate investigation of the accident.

Several witnesses said it sounded like a sonic boom when the planes collided about 2:30 p.m.

Police Officer John Hicks, inside the station, said the twin-engine plane was "whistling as it came in and all hell broke loose when it hit."

There was a tremendous explosion, he said, and the building vibrated.

City police, California Highway Patrol officers and city firemen swarmed to the scene, searching for casualties, putting out the fire, and blocking off traffic in the area.

Ford, Carter swap quips at black-tie N.Y. dinner

NEW YORK (UPI) — On the eve of their last debate, President Ford and Jimmy Carter began the home stretch of their White House race Thursday night with a light-hearted exchange of quips at the annual Alfred E. Smith memorial dinner.

Ford, who appeared first before the black-tie audience of New York political professionals and Catholic notables, mocked his own tendency to commit geographical goofs by declaring "It's always good to come back to Philadelphia."

And he assured the group he was taking no chances, and had had a "Jimmy proof" lock installed on the White House door.

Carter, who spoke after Ford had left, had written an "it's a pleasure to be in Chicago" line in his prepared remarks, but quickly switched to a new gag when he learned Ford had stolen his material.

"It's great to be in . . .," he said with a long pause and a thoughtful frown. Then brightening, "New York!" It brought down the house.

"I won't always say I know where I am but when I don't I've at least learned to avoid the issue," Carter went on.

Carter said Terence Cardinal Cooke "gave me some good advice . . . if I ever give another interview on the biblical sins of pride and lust, it will be to a reporter from 'Our Sunday Visitor.'"

Both men had more serious words for the occasion, a fundraising event for Catholic charities honoring the memory of Smith, who as the 1928 Democratic presidential candidate was the first Roman Catholic to head a major party ticket.

Ford warned that if people continue to look for government for all their needs, they may end up looking to the government "to set the standards for compassion and care."

"We may soon forget that the highest standards were already set for us not on Capitol Hill, but long ago on two loftier peaks, Mount Sinai and the Mount Olive."

Carter, a Baptist and southerner, likened his candidacy to that of Smith, who Carter said was denied the presidency because of religious prejudice. The race this year "is part of a long process by which we in America are overcoming prejudices and stereotypes of the past," Carter said.

Ford and Carter meet Friday in Williamsburg, Va., for their third and final debate, then begin intensive wind-up campaigning scheduled to extend right up to the Nov. 2 balloting.

The debate at William and Mary is a 90-minute affair open to any topic. It shaped up as something of a rubber-match, because most polls rated Ford the winner of the first debate on domestic policy and Carter winner of the second on foreign affairs.

The candidates also seemed likely to continue the rancorous, personal broadsides that began with the second debate and have dominated campaign talk since.

On another issue, a Carter campaign aide said the Gallup poll to be made public today shows Carter leading Ford by 6 points. Carter has 47 per cent to Ford's 41 per cent. The new poll shows little movement from Gallup's earlier findings.

WHILE THE FERRYBOAT George Prince is being hoisted partway out of the muddy Mississippi, divers that worked through the night warm themselves by a fire. A death toll of 100 is feared.

Ferry dead hunted by divers, sonar

DESTREHAN, La. (UPI) — Teams of divers, directed by sophisticated sonar, Thursday searched the muddy Mississippi River bottom for more victims of the collision of a 22,000-ton tanker and a crowded ferryboat.

Twenty-two bodies have been recovered, but at least 56 other persons were missing from the 120-foot ferryboat George Prince which sank 15 minutes after it was rammed by the 664-foot Norwegian tanker Frosta before dawn Wednesday.

A half mile upstream, crews worked in eight-hour shifts trying to lift the wreckage of the sunken ferry. A 650-ton floating crane pulled the hull half out of the water by sunset, but progress was slowed because workmen had to readjust cables every few minutes.

More than 150 relatives and friends of the missing stood in small groups along the river-bank for the second consecutive day, watching the 24-hour search effort through binoculars and waiting for news.

"I just wish they'd get him out of the river," said Karen Wolf, whose missing husband, David, was one of the deckhands on the ferryboat.

Only 18 persons survived the collision, and authorities feared the death toll could reach 100 depending on the number of commuters who were crowded aboard the barge-like vessel for the seven-minute river crossing.

Most of the missing were believed trapped in the 31 cars which were scattered up to a half mile downstream by the current. Officials said more bodies could still be in the sunken ferryboat — where all of the first 22 bodies were found.

Coast Guard investigators scheduled a formal inquiry into the accident Friday in New Orleans. Sonar crews throught they had found most of the 31 missing cars Thursday, but the underwater search revealed only a pile of junk metal. A more sophisticated sonar system was brought in and the search resumed after sunset.

"Right now we're back to base one," said Lt. Wallace Friloux at state police rescue headquarters. "We have relocated to a different area and we are searching again, but we haven't found anything."

"It's my feeling the death toll is going to go over 100," said St. Charles Parish Sheriff John O. St. Amant. "There's a good possibility all of the victims will never be found."

That would make the disaster the worst on Mark Twain's river since 1,000 persons died in an explosion aboard the steamboat Sultana near Memphis, Tenn., in 1865.

Formal passenger counts rarely are kept on the ferry, which shuttles workers from Destrehan across the river to Luling, 30 miles upstream from New Orleans. President Ford departed from the Destrehan landing on his river boat campaign three weeks ago.

Divers spent the day Wednesday pulling bodies from the ferryboat, which sank at an angle in 90 feet of water, leaving only 20 feet of its bow above the murky surface. Windows and doors were found smashed in the passenger compartment.

Potent natural pain-killer announced

Researchers have discovered a natural substance in the pituitary gland which acts as a pain-killer "far more potent than morphine," the University of California announced Thursday. The powerful natural opiate, manufactured by the human pituitary, is called "betaendorphin." "In the first reported tests on live animals, researchers have demonstrated this substance is at least 20 to 40 times more effective than morphine in the relief of pain when injected directly into the brains of rats and mice, and three to four times more effective when injected intravenously."

Mistrial declared in Bolles murder case

A Phoenix judge Thursday declared a mistrial in the case of John Adamson, accused of killing investigative reporter Don Bolles. Superior Court Judge Frederic Heineman acted on grounds of "prejudicial publicity." The motion for a mistrial was made by defense attorney William Feldhacker, with agreement of prosecutor William Schafer. Heineman dismissed the panel of prospective jurors and scheduled a new trial date for no later than Dec. 20.

Sirica dissolves Medicaid-abortion order

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica Thursday dissolved an order which temporarily blocked a new law barring use of federal Medicaid funds for voluntary abortions. Sirica emphasized he was not ruling on the merits of a constitutional challenge to the law, but had decided opponents failed to show that either Virginia or the District of Columbia would cease paying for abortions from their own funds under their own laws. The court challenge was brought by three pregnant women who planned to obtain abortions under Medicaid, three women who had obtained abortions in the past, and one doctor.

Report Lebanon cease-fire violations

The Arab League reported Thursday both Christians and Moslems had committed "quite a number" of cease-fire violations on the first day of the latest truce in Lebanon's civil war. Leftist forces accused Israel of bombarding their positions in an effort to scuttle the cease-fire. Small units from the 2,500-man Arab League peacekeeping force in Beirut moved into observer positions along the capital's confrontation lines to monitor cease-fire violations and report them to President Elias Sarkis, who was personally supervising the truce, an Arab League spokesman said. "The command regrets to say that quite a number of violations have been registered on the first day which claimed a number of innocent victims," the spokesman said.

Smith warns of new black demands

Prime Minister Ian Smith warned Thursday that new black demands could wreck the Geneva conference on Rhodesia before it begins and hinted he might walk out if black leaders try to change part of the plan negotiated by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. Smith, first to arrive in Geneva for the talks on Rhodesia's future, flew in from Salisbury with his wife and 30 aides aboard a chartered South African Airways jetliner. The formal opening of the British-sponsored conference, with Smith facing four black Rhodesian leaders, is set for Oct. 28.

South African blacks stone cars

Groups of blacks stoned cars and tried to set fire to a school Thursday in scattered incidents of violence in black townships, South African police said. No casualties were reported. Maj. Gen. Dawid Kriel, deputy police commissioner in charge of riot control, said police fired four warning shots over the heads of a group of 20 black youths stoning their vehicle in Naledi, a suburb of Soweto. In another suburb, Klipspruit, about 50 youths hurled gasoline bombs at the home of a black policeman.

dicate they already are dead."

The NCNA dispatch also officially confirmed the appointment of Hua Kuo-feng as new party chairman, succeeding Mao, who held the chairmanship for more than 40 years.

"The demonstrators enthusiastically hailed the great victory in crushing the anti-party clique and indignantly condemned the towering crimes of the 'gang of four' in plotting to usurp party and state power," NCNA said.

The demonstraton by military men and civilians in the capital Thursday "hailed the great victory in shattering the scheme of the anti-party clique of Wang Hung-wen, Chang Chun-chiao, Chiang Ching and Yao Wen-yuan to usurp party and state power, a scheme that had been shattered by the party central committee headed by Chairman Hua Kuo-feng in accordance with Chairman Mao's behests and in compliance with the fundamental interests and common wishes of the whole party, the whole army and the people of all nationalities throughout the country," NCNA said.

Without going into specific details, the NCNA report listed the accusations against the four radicals.

"The demonstrators pointed out that they were typical representatives of the bourgeoisie inside the party and the unrepentant capitalist-roaders inside the party who were still on the capitalist road.

"They wantonly tampered with Marxism-Leninsim-Mao Tse-tung thought. They opposed Chairman Mao's proletarian revolutionary line on a series of domestic and international questions. They opposed Chairman Mao's three basic principles: 'Practice Marxism, not revisionism. Unite, and don't split. Be open and aboveboard, and don't intrigue and conspire.'

"And they practiced revisionism under the signboard of Marxism. They formed a 'gang of four' to carry out factional activities to split the party and (engaged) in unbridled intrigues and conspiracies in an attempt to usurp top party and state leadership."

It also is ironic that the four were being labeled as "capitalist roaders." This is the label they pinned on Liu Shaochi, who was purged as chairman (president) of the republic 10 years ago and Teng Hsiao-ping, who was purged twice, once 10 years ago and again last April.

Teng was party secretary general and vice premier when he first was purged, along with Liu. He was a party vice chairman, vice premier and acting chief of the armed forces general staff when he was purged last April. Both campaigns against the "capitalist roaders" within the party were spearheaded by the radicals.

Savalas an 'ideal image'

• The Men's Fashion Association of America has named eight males as ideal images, "best representing the way American men see themselves and would like others to see them." The eight ranged from actors to a department store owner. Named were: Actors Telly "Kojak" Savalas and Cliff Robertson; Olympic decathlon Gold Medalist Bruce Jenner, sportscaster Frank Gifford and pitcher Tom Seaver of the New York Mets; composer Burt Bachrach and Texas department store executive Stanley Marcus. Douglas Fairbanks Jr. was elected to the "American Image Hall of Fame."

Reagan on stump, urges Ford attack

Ronald Reagan said in Alsip Thursday he would advise President Ford in the closing days of the campaign to "ride to the sound of the guns — attack." Reagan, campaigning in the Illinois 3rd Congressional District for Republican Ronald Buikema, said he will have been to 25 states between August and Nov. 2 on behalf of Ford and Republican congressional candidates. He said in his speeches he emphasizes the Republican party platform, of which he was the main author, rather than emphasizing Ford. But he said that does not mean that he is not supporting the President fully. "It's just my manner of speaking," he said. "I don't seem to menton names a great deal, but I think the crowds know who I'm talking about."

Reagan, defeated by Ford for the Republican presidential nomination, said he thinks it is better to emphasize the platform because it clearly defines what Republicans stand for, and on many points is in direct opposition to the Democratic platform. After Nov. 2, whether Republicans win or lose, they should emphasize the platform in an attempt to gain in party members, he said. Asked what he thinks Ford should do between now and the election, Reagan smiled and said as an "old cavalry rider" he would suggest the President "ride to the sound of the guns — attack." Reagan said Jimmy Carter is "guilty of demogoguery," and that should be pointed out. He said Carter unfairly blames Republicans for the nation's problems when in fact they are the fault of Democratic Congresses which have been in control of the legislative branch for 22 years.

Police in truck crackdown

Chicago Police Supt. James Rochford Thursday said additional police cars are being assigned to the city's four expressways to keep a closer eye on trucks which are getting "a little reckless." Rochford said there have been nine fatalities involving trucks on the expressways in the first nine months of this year and there have been more than 1,200 truck-related accidents in that period. He said an extra police car will be assigned to each expressway on all three shifts. Currently, Rochford said, there are 15-patrol cars on each expressway during the day and evening shifts and 12 on the midnight shift.

Sen. Percy denies Kerner's charges

U.S. Sen. Charles Percy Thursday refuted charges made by Anton Kerner, son of the late former Gov. Otto Kerner, that Richard Nixon had picked former U.S. Atty. James R. Thompson to prosecute his father.

"It is totally false. Richard Nixon did not even know Jim Thompson," Percy said. Percy, who was Thompson's sponsor for the U.S. attorney post, said he understands Kerner's need to clear his father's name. "But this is totally false and unfair," Percy said.

Percy refused to speculate on whether Kerner's recent comments regarding Thompson were politically motivated. "I'd like to believe they are not, but I just don't know. There is certainly the implication that politics is involved.

Kerner has been traveling in Illinois this week, playing a taped interview with former Presidential counselor Charles Colson. In the interview, Colson contends that Nixon and former U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell handpicked Thompson to prosecute Kerner.

Thompson also has denied Kerner's charge, stating that the Kerner investigation was begun before he became U.S. attorney.

200 groups fail to tell finances

Some 200 political fund-raising organizations have failed to meet the latest deadline for disclosing contributions, the Illinois Board of Elections said Thursday. Richard Anderson, chief of the board's public disclosure unit, said the 1,650 registered political fund-raising committees in Illinois should have filed reports by last Monday for the period covering June 30 to Oct. 4. Two hundred committees failed to do so, he said, and court action may be taken against those which don't comply. Anderson said public hearings will be held before the Nov. 2 election so the public will know which committees and candidates failed to file the latest reports.

Nobel winner hopes prize won't jinx his career

by PATRICK J. KILLEN
United Press International

Saul Bellow, eyes glistening, spoke of his fears and humility Thursday at winning the Nobel Prize for literature and displayed wit, charm and a slight intellectual bias against Gerald Ford.

"A primitive part of me," the white-haired University of Chicago English professor told a news conference, "the child in me is delighted. The adult in me is skeptical."

Bellow, 61, comfortable in a light green turtle neck shirt and dark green suit, said he hoped the award would not be a burden as it was to the late John Steinbeck.

"I KNEW Steinbeck quite well and I remember how burdened he was by the Nobel Prize. He felt that he had to give a better account of himself than he had done...

"I remember feeling rather sorry for him. I felt it lay all too heavily on him . . . and I think it made him quite wretched. I hope it isn't going to make me wretched, but then I'm a more cynical character."

Bellow said he had a real fear of becoming a celebrity. "Being a writer is a rather dreamy thing. And nobody likes to have the diaphanous tissues torn . . . One has to protect one's dream space."

Noting the large crowd of reporters, photographers and cameramen in the university classroom, Bellow smiled and said, "Who's watching those two poor candidates today?"

LATER HE was told President Ford had said the sweep of seven Nobel prizes this year by Americans showed the United States is a great intellectual haven.

"Somebody must have told President Ford that because I don't think he would have discerned it for himself," he said.

Bellow said he believed the reasons given by the Nobel committee for his selection were "a pretty good assessment."

"For one reason or another, perhaps political, an American got the prize this year and it happened to be me."

SOME OTHER literary figures, Bellow said, who deserved Nobel prizes included Christiana Stad, Andre Malraux, R.K. Narayan, and D.S. Naipaul.

Bellow said it was bad luck to discuss present or future works but told reporters, "I intend to write at least one more (nonfiction book). I'm just retooling, as it were, I'm grinding, finding sharper edges."

SAUL BELLOW

Bellow said he disliked being called a Chicago writer or a Jewish writer. "I am a modern writer," he said. "Still, " he said, "I've lived in Chicago a long time and I don't mind giving a boost to the old town."

He said he spent Wednesday night trying not to think about the Nobel Prize and had a quiet evening at home with his wife "with alcohol" before and after dinner.

Asked what he would do with his $150,000 prize money, Bellow said, "I don't have any plans for the money. At this rate (considering the publicity and attention), my heirs will get the money in a day or two."

A few minutes later, he put on a battered fedora, adjusted a black leather topcoat, and walked out into the cold, looking for some quiet dream space.

President going all out (and how) for cash

by ROBERT KIECKHEFER

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — Paul Powell, who died in 1970 leaving a mysterious bribe-fueled $800,000 cash hoard in a shoebox and briefcases, got a letter Thursday from President Ford and Ronald Reagan, asking for a campaign contribution.

The former secretary of state was known as one of the state's staunchest Democrats.

"Dear Mr. Powell," Ford's letter said.

"I am writing to you today along with Governor Reagan about a serious and urgent matter that has come to our attention."

FORD SAID when he heard recently that the Republican party is short of money for congressional campaigns, "I decided to personally write you to ask for your help and support."

The letter is one of those automatically printed ones that sprinkles the recipient's name throughout the text.

"I have carefully studied the Jimmy Carter-Liberal Democrat platform, Mr. Powell," the letter said. "It is a platform more radical than the 1972 McGovern platform.

"I am counting on you," Ford told Powell. "Without your help, I know we cannot elect more Republicans to Congress to help stop the 1976 Democratic platform from passing Congress next year."

Reagan's letter told Powell, "Recent shocking events confirm what you and I both know: The Democrats' power in Congress has grown completely out of control."

"For the sake of this country, we must break up the Liberal Democrat-Labor Boss stranglehold on Congress in 1976," Reagan said.

The letters were delivered to Sec. of State Michael J. Howlett's office.

POWELL, A legendary wheeler-dealer from Vienna in Southern Illinois, served 30 consecutive years in the Illinois House before being elected secretary of state in 1964.

After his death on Oct. 10, 1970, his executor found some $800,000 in cash stuffed in a shoebox and other makeshift containers on a closet shelf in his room at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

The discovery later made headlines nationwide and teams of federal, state and county investigators joined dozens of reporters in efforts to discover where the frugal public servant got that much cash.

Illinois Issues

How the people view the election

During the past month, teams of Herald reporters and photographers have traveled throughout five areas of the state to find the political flavors outside Cook and Lake counties.

In each area we tried to meet the people, to see how they feel about the Nov. 2 election and if, indeed, they even care.

Miners, farmers, shop owners, housewives, in short, the common people will have their stories told in this special series so you — The Herald reader — can gain a broader perspective before you vote.

Stanley Inc. to plan closure of landfill

Stanley Consultants Inc., Chicago, has been hired by the village board to prepare a plan for closing the Arlington Heights landfill under Illinois Environmental Protection Agency requirements.

The landfill, which has not been used for about five years, is violating EPA standards. It is located at Nichols and Schaefer roads on the north edge of the village.

Stanley Consultants will be paid $3,000 to prepare the plan and to conduct noise level tests during a skeet shoot at the landfill later this month.

The Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding is considering a proposal to develop a skeet shooting range and ski slopes at the 57-acre landfill site.

Shrubs to serve as hall boundary

Shrubbery instead of a five-foot brick wall will serve as the lot boundary behind the new Wheeling Township Hall, 1640 N. Arlington Heights Rd.

The Arlington Heights Village Board earlier this week granted a variation of a village ordinance that would have required the brick wall, Ethel Kolerus, Wheelng Township supervisor, said.

Mrs. Kolerus said she asked for the variance after neighbors who own the shrubbery had asked that it not be taken down. She said the township probably will save about $5,000 by not building the brick wall.

2 named to seniors' panel

Mary Bemis and Edward Geiss, both of Arlington Heights, were named to the Wheeling Township Advisory Council on Senior Citizens.

Meeting reset to Nov. 3

The township has rescheduled its next meeting Nov. 3 because the regular date of Nov. 2 conflicts with the general election.

Space request hearing set

A public hearing on a request by the Northwest Mental Health Assn. to rent half the second floor of the new township hall will precede the Nov. 3 township meeting at 7:30 p.m.

The mental health association has asked to rent the space for 10 years at a cost of $40,000.

The hearing and township meeting will be at the township hall, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy.

Quarterly report ready soon

Wheeling Township residents soon will be receiving an issue of the township's autumn quarterly report.

The board of auditors said they would gauge reaction to the new four-page newsletter before deciding whether to continue publishing it on a quarterly basis.

Lawyers spar over closed meet

by SHERYL JEDLINSKI

Lawyers for the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education and representatives of the Illinois Attorney General's Office are at odds over the legality of a closed board meeting.

On Oct. 4, the board met in executive session with the committee of 10 Dist. 59 residents who filed petitions requesting a referendum on the formation of an area unit school district.

Testimony and strategy relating to unit district hearings under way was the discussion topic at the meeting, Board Pres. Judith Zanca said Wednesday.

A DIST. 59 resident at Monday night's board meeting questioned the legality of the closed session, but Mrs. Zanca said the district's attorney had advised the board that the meeting was "perfectly legal."

According to the Illinois Open Meeting Act, however, there was "no basis" for holding the discussion in a closed meeting, said Herbert L. Caplan, deputy chief of the general law division of the Illinois Attorney General's Office.

The law provides that public bodies must deliberate openly except in instances involving discussion of collective bargaining negotiations, the acquisition of real estate, personnel appointments or dismissals, student discipline cases or "a pending court proceeding against or on behalf of the particular governmental unit" deliberating.

Caplan said Dist. 59's closed meeting does not fall within any of the exceptions listed in the open meetings law, but William Murphy, an attorney retained by Dist. 59 to provide legal advice on unit district proceedings, disagreed.

"I DON'T KNOW what could be a clearer case of pending litigation than the unit district hearings," Murphy said. "It's not court litigation, but it is administrative litigation and more and more of life is being regulated by administrative rather than judicial decisions."

Murphy said Dist. 59 officials were not trying to hide anything by holding a closed meeting.

Caplan agreed that participants in pending litigation have the right not to have their strategy exposed before it is revealed in court, but he said the unit district hearings do not constitute litigation in the "classic" sense in which particular rights are being contested.

Violations of the open meeting act can be remedied by a court order requiring future meetings to be conducted openly.

Persons convicted of violating the act can be fined up to $5,000 and jailed up to 30 days.

Busing for bike program restored

by SHERYL JEDLINSKI

The Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education has restored transportation funds for the township's school bicycle safety program. However, for students at Frost School, 1308 S. Cypress Dr., in Mount Prospect, and Devonshire School, 1401 S. Pennsylvania, Des Plaines, the move came too late.

Program coordinator Elizabeth Coleman said students at High Ridge Knolls School, 588 S Dara James Rd., Des Plaines, would be able to participate in the fall program as planned, but students from Frost and Devonshire schools would not. These students from those two schools will be rescheduled for the spring program if time permits, she said.

The program had been jeopardized by the district's withdrawal of a bus used to transport Dist. 59 children to the training facility. The board voted this week to restore up to $2,000 in transportation funds to keep the program going through the fall.

ALTHOUGH THE $2,000 is sufficient to pay for busing the remaining 1,300 students scheduled for the fall program, only about 300 students will be able to take advantage of the program.

"When the district dropped the funds for the bus last month it set the program back two weeks," Ms. Coleman said.

In the absence of the bus service, the bicycle safety program, complete with 18 bicycles, 10 signs and 20 sandbags, had to be trucked from school to school.

Under this system, students could not use the bike riding practice area set up at the Elk Grove Park District parking lot adjacent to the program training facility at Lively Junior High School, 999 Leicester Rd., Elk Grove Village. Also, because many schools did not have classrooms set aside for the program, there was nowhere to show bicycle safety films or to talk with the children before theif practice riding.

Policy changes at Davidsmeyer Bus Service, Inc., the company which provides buses for Dist. 59, also have hampered the safety program. The firm this year decided to provide field trip buses only until 2:15 p.m. rather than until 3 p.m., necessitating the elimination of the program's afternoon classes, Ms. Coleman said.

"WITH OUR LAST class ending at 3 p.m., the company said it was difficult for the drivers to get back in time for their regular junior high runs," she said. "Now our time's cut in half and it takes two weeks to do a school instead of one."

With the reduced availability of buses, Ms. Coleman said she may have to conduct the program's classroom activities in winter and its bike riding activities in spring in order to accommodate the students scheduled for the program.

The children who would be affected are from Hopkins and Salt Creek schools in Elk Grove Village, Brentwood and Einstein schools in Des Plaines and Forest View School in Mount Prospect.

Meanwhile, the availability of transportation funds for the spring program still is uncertain. Officials from Dist. 59 and the township are to meet in late winter to work out a funding arrangement.

Because the township's fiscal year begins in April, funds for the bus service possibly could be included in the township's 1977 budget, said Richard Hall, Elk Grove Township supervisor.

Plan unit approves move by car dealer

The plan commission has approved a request by Roto Lincoln Mercury Inc. to move to 1400 E. Rand Rd. from its present location at 1410 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights.

Dick Roto, president, said the new facility will be "the most modern and one of the largest" auto dealerships in the area.

The building will include a body shop, he said. If the village board agrees to the move, Roto said the firm could move by next summer.

Hersey to present 'The Crucible' today

"The Crucible" will be presented by Hersey High School at 8 p.m. today and Saturday in the school theatre, 1900 E. Thomas St. Arlington Heights.

The play by Arthur Miller is based on the Salem, Mass. witchcraft trials. It centers on the story of a farmer falsely accused of practicing witchcraft by a vindictive young girl.

Cast members include Scott Koenig as John Proctor, Laura Paa as Elizabeth Proctor, Roger DeSantis as Judge Dantforth, Patty Strong as Abigail, Dave Flavin as Reverend Hale and Bob Noll as Reverend Parris.

Tickets are $1.50 and can be purchased by calling 259-8500, ext. 71.

Legal battle brewing

Shooting past, but woes move along with family

by JOHN LAMPINEN

John Grena didn't think his lease was bulletproof.

When the shots started flying through his Hoffman Estates apartment, Grena figured that was reason enough to move.

His landlord doesn't see it that way.

A month after the shooting incident, Grena and his family finally feel secure in their new Chicago home.

BUT THE SENSE of security has cost him $500, and he still has a $2,025 lease hanging over his head. Wednesday, he got a threatening note in the mail to boot.

The family had lived at 216 Grand Canyon Pkwy. for about three months before bullets began zinging through the apartment Sept. 15 while Grena was watching "Starsky and Hutch."

"It was just like somebody was pounding on the floor, but plaster was hitting me," he recalls.

Police believe the suspects in the shooting were aiming at a neighboring apartment and that some of the 15 bullets passed through the walls into the Grena apartment.

Later that night, says Grena, 23, his wife Amy, 22, was still shaken by what had happened. So they packed their bags.

"I figured I'm getting out of here right now," Grena says. "My wife was upset that night and didn't want to go back for anything."

HIS WIFE CALLED the apartment manager the next day to say they were in the process of moving, Grena says. "She (the manager) said there's no way we can move because we've got a lease with them and all that."

But despite the manager's contention that the Grenas could be made to pay off the lease, he says, the family went ahead with the move.

He had just paid the next month's rent, so Grena called the bank and stopped payment on the $225 check. A week later, he rented a moving van for $200 and came back to get his furniture. He says he gave the manager the key and asked her to inspect the apartment for damage.

Again, he says, he was told he couldn't move out, and that he definitely wasn't going to get his $150 damage deposit back.

All this leaves Grena a little upset.

ONE OF THE SHOTS, he recalls, came close to where 3-year-old daughter Laura had been sleeping just moments before. Anyone in his family could have been hit by one of the stray bullets, he says.

"If they had been shot," he says, "what would they say then about a lease?"

So Grena's next step was to hire a lawyer.

The lawyer said he could definitely get him out of the lease, mentioned that he might even have a case for a negligence suit.

That sat pretty well with Grena, so he didn't mind forking over $150 in attorney's fees.

WEDNESDAY, HIS lawyer said he still thinks he can get Grena out of the lease, but it doesn't look like he'll be able to recover his $150 damage deposit.

"All he did was try to sublet the apartment," Grena says.

Ben Hutto of Vavrus and Associates in Joliet, which operates the Grand Canyon Apartments, refuses to discuss Grena's complaints.

"I think this case is going to be in litigation," he says. "I really don't know what's going to happen."

He won't say which party may begin the litigation, whether it's Grena seeking to void the lease or Vavrus and Associates seeking to make him stick to it.

MEANWHILE, GRENA says he's not sure what his landlord would be keeping the security deposit for.

When he stopped back for his furniture a week after the shooting, he says, he didn't see any sign that work had been done to fix any damages.

"They didn't even fix the bullet holes," he says. "It cost me $500 to get out of that place, and they want to keep my security deposit."

But Grena's story doesn't end there. His wife picked up a note at their Hoffman Estates mail box Wednesday.

There was no signature. It was addressed to his old apartment, with a "Do not forward, address correction requested" marked in the corner.

ON THE TORN sheet of note paper inside was scribbled a message threatening the lives of the family.

"I don't know who it is," Grena says. He worries that the person who shot up his apartment may have sent it.

If that's not a reason for moving out, he asks, then what is?

"I'd like my security deposit back, that's the main thing," he says. "It's a matter of principle, because why should they keep it? It wasn't my fault."

Grant sought for bus for elderly

pervisor, said.

The $15,000 for transportation for the handicapped would be used in conjunction with programs sponsored by the Northwest Special Recreation Assn. of Arlington Heights.

"We'd like to provide some special recreation opportunities for people who aren't able to get to them now," Gilligan said.

He said a bus would be hired to take handicapped persons to Northwest Special Recreation programs — such as bowling leagues, swimming programs, photo courses and ski lessons.

Mrs. Kolerus said a shuttle bus would operate during evening hours, after 3 p.m., to make sure the handicapped of the township can participate in the recreational activities.

If the grant is approved by the RTA, Gilligan said, the money probably would not be available until the middle of next year.

"We're looking more toward a year from now," Gilligan said.

'Just wonderful' — taxis for elderly

there is a good reason for the extensive use of the program, Geiss said, especially when it is a senior citizen making daily trips to visit a spouse at the hospital.

Geiss recently surveyed about 100 senior citizens who use the taxi service and found that 98 per cent of them depend on the program because they have no other means of transportation. "Most of them think the program is wonderful and very few had complaints about the system," he said.

Senior citizens questioned Thursday at the park district's "Over 50" club lauded the taxi program, but in some instances criticized the slow service.

"Sometimes I couldn't get out otherwise. I think it's wonderful," said Agnes Reitmeyer, who uses the taxi service to get to church and for shopping trips.

JULIA ROWADER said she uses the taxis most often in the winter, but she complained that she can't depend on them because the service is not always prompt.

"I've waited as long as an hour and 40 minutes," said Otto Ehlers. "I only use it about once every two weeks to go downtown to the bank and to do some grocery shopping, and maybe to get a date with a widow. Sometimes I only use it at the beginning of the month to go get my Social Security check cashed," he said.

One woman, who asked not to be identified, said she uses the taxi service every chance she gets.

"I live alone and have to have transportation. This is a wonderful thing, but why shouldn't we have it. We're taxpayers, too," she said.

SEVERAL SENIOR citizens said they would like to see the village give more attention to their needs, such as bus service to the Woodfield and Randhurst shopping centers.

But they realize what they have now — the subsidized taxi service — is much more than they had two years ago. And they are grateful.

"It's wonderful," the man said as he continued to shuffle the playing cards. "But if you could get me a bus to Randhurst, I'd sure appreciate it."

Despite big lead in polls, Thompson is still pushing

En route with the Thompson campaign — James R. Thompson, the Republican candidate for governor, said Thursday both the public and private polls show him with what he believes is a nearly insurmountable lead, but added he continues to campaign from dawn til dusk to keep staffers and volunteers from taking his election for granted.

The Republican's comments came during an exclusive interview with The Herald after the start of a campaign day which began with a pre-dawn handshaking stop with Texaco refinery workers in downstate Lawrenceville.

Thompson also talked about the fact that he has some uncertainties regarding a number of key issues related to getting his administration off the ground. He also spoke cautiously about speculation that he represents a logical GOP presidential possibility.

THOMPSON SAID there were a number of reasons why he has received national attention and has been mentioned as a presidential candidate.

"It's a natural. Illinois is one of the most important states in the country. It involves Mayor Daley, and it is the classic confrontation between a young reformer and the old tiger of The Machine."

Thompson said he was "flattered" and unruffled by the attention he has received from the national news media.

"It will not get in my way. It will not make me a lousy governor because I have dreams of the White House. How could I be considered a presidential candidate without being a good governor," he added.

ALTHOUGH THOMPSON says he is confident of victory in a general election, which is just 12 days away, he said his intensive campaign schedule is aimed at keeping his aides from letting down.

"The best way to do that is for them to see the candidate work hard. 'I've been working hard for 16 months, and I wouldn't know what to do now if we let up. Besides that, I enjoy it,'" he said.

The former U.S. attorney said that even if there is voter apathy in this election he doesn't believe that will hurt his chances. People who will vote for me are enthusiastic, or they don't want Daley's governor in there," he said.

Thompson added that he plans to campaign actively in Cook County in behalf of State's Attorney Bernard Carey and around the state for incumbent comptroller George Lindberg, who is involved in a tough election fight with Democrat Michael Bakalis.

WHILE DISCUSSING the factors involved in taking control of Illinois government, Thompson said he has some uncertainties in his mind about beginning his administration.

"I don't know if we can find all of the high quality people we need in state government. I haven't started a talent hunt yet. It would have been presumptuous of me to begin one," he said.

Thompson also said he was uncertain about how much information he will receive from lame-duck Gov. Daniel Walker concerning the fiscal 1978 budget.

"I would hope Walker would tell me about his budget on Nov. 3. We should not have to wait until Jan. 1 to find out what spending plans the governor has made.

He noted he also was concerned and uncertain about deficiency appropriations for state agencies, especially the Illinois Dept. of Public Aid.

"Let's face it, any new governor has to face that office with a lot of uncertainties," he added.

Bandwagon Downstate

Thompson confident election will march to his tune

by STEVE BROWN

METROPOLIS, Ill. — Republican James R. Thompson, apparently confident of winning the Nov. 2 general election, Thursday began inviting Downstate bands to march in his inaugural parade.

The invitations were extended as the GOP gubernatorial candidate rambled through 10 Southern Illinois cities in a camper caravan.

Thompson abbreviated his standard stump speech to focus on "the two main issues in the governor's race."

"We have talked about a lot of issues in the last 16 months, but the important thing is that I am a free man and that is the main issue between Mr. Howlett and me. I don't run against the city or the mayor, but we don't want Dick Daley to shove a governor down our throats."

THOMPSON SAID, "I will not cheat the people of Chicago, or the suburbs that surround Chicago. I will be the governor for all of Illinois."

During the Downstate swing, Thompson asked the Pope County High School band and the Vienna grade school band to march in Springfield. The move seemed to demonstrate to some observers a stronger sense of confidence on Thompson's part that had not been witnessed in earlier appearances.

The former U.S. attorney talked to crowds of between 100 and 200 persons in his appearances in some of the state's smaller, Southeastern Illinois counties.

The Republican kissed his first baby in this campaign while in Golconda, and apparently found it to his liking as he kissed three teen-age girls before leaving town.

THOMPSON OPENED the day with a predawn hand-shaking stop with refinery workers in Lawrenceville.

Later he told students at Wabash Valley College that "Illinois needs a governor who is fair."

Thompson let his rigorous campaign schedule fall behind while he made stops at two antique shops, one near Junction and a second in Pope County.

Throughout the day, Thompson spoke to crowds out of doors and at one point attended a rally in a picturesque scene on the banks of the Ohio River at Elizabethtown.

At that stop, Hardin County Sheriff Charles Millikan said Thompson is "running strong" in his county. Farther north, White County Republican Chairwoman Mary Voupel said voter apathy is a problem.

"The people did not want to register to vote this year," she said, adding that leaving her partisan feelings aside, "The county might carry for Thompson."

ALONG THE 250-MILE caravan route, which ended with an event billed as "The greatest Bible sing," Thompson criticized Howlett's contention that his 16 years in government service was a reason to elect him governor. "Just because a man has served in government for 16 years is no reason for him to be governor," he said.

Thompson also criticized Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan for saying the Republican might abolish the Illinois Dept. on Aging.

"Lately, Hartigan in a last-minute effort to help Mike Howlett, has said I would abolish this department," Thompson said. "This is not true. I'm interested in making government more responsive, and if it is a choice between having an agency that is just a name on the door, or in having an agency that will be responsive, I will take the agency that is responsive," he said.

Ford orders plan to curb jet noise within 8 years

Proposal draws praise, criticism

President Ford's proposal to reduce airport noise by requiring all planes to meet noise control standards gained support Thursday from an official of the organization which has been working to control noise at O'Hare Airport.

Ford's proposal drew criticism however from U.S. Rep. Abner Mikva, D-10th, who had a proposal, which would have done the same thing over a shorter period, killed in Congress this year.

Philip Lindahl, environmental officer for Des Plaines and a member of the National Organization to Ensure a Sound-controlled Environment said, "Anything to bring aircraft into compliance with present standards would be desirable."

LINDAHL SAID his group has called for the 1,550 Boeing 727s which do not meet current standards to be required to meet the standards in five years, rather than eight as proposed by Ford.

Mikva said, "I'm sorry he (Ford) has politicized this issue by waiting until 10 days before the election to take a stand. If the president had chosen to exercise his leadership a month or two months ago it wouldn't have looked like a political stunt."

Mikva said he has proposed legislation to require all planes to meet the standards within three years. He said, "The reason we couldn't get any legislation out is because the administration balked."

NEW YORK (UPI) — In an airport speech interrupted by the roar of nearby planes, President Ford Thursday said he has ordered a multibillion-dollar program to make the nation's airlines curb the noise of all their jets within eight years.

Ford said he intends to make the new low noise standards apply to all foreign aircraft flying to the United States — including the Anglo-French Concorde supersonic transport.

The President's order, if actually extended to the SST, could ban the supersonic craft from U.S. skies. British and French officials have said their SST cannot be made to meet the noise standards for the newest subsonic jets and under international law should not be forced to do so.

BUT A FEDERAL Aviation Administration spokesman said he doubted the new standard would be extended to the SST because current U.S. standards apply specifically to subsonic planes and there is no U.S. supersonic standard.

Ford, in the speech at busy Kennedy International Airport, said he has ordered a study by Transportation Secy. William Coleman to determine how best to carry out the silencing program and pay for it. He did not specify whether it should consist of modification, replacement or a mixture of both.

The new order gives the airlines eight years from Jan. 1, 1977, to gradually bring their entire fleets under noise rules that so far have applied only to the Boeing 747, the McDonnell Douglas DC10, the Lockheed L1011 and smaller jetliners built after Nov. 18, 1969.

UNDER THAT rule, the maximum noise a big jet can make on landing or takeoff is 108 perceived noise decibels, and smaller jets must be even quieter.

By contrast the Concorde and older four-engine jets such as the Boeing 707 produce about 120 perceived decibels — a roar 120 per cent louder than now will be allowed.

Ford said 1,550 jetliners, about 80 per cent of the U.S. fleet, fail to meet the new standards.

Shutdown of 36 reactors urged

by LEA TONKIN

Calling for a shutdown of 36 nuclear reactors which use pressurized water colling systems, including two reactors at the Zion plant near Waukegan, Ronald Fluegge, Nuclear Regulatory Commission engineer, Thursday said the agency allows more than half the reactors in the United States to operate with a potential for catastrophic accident.

Ronald Fluegge

Fluegge said at a Washington, D.C., press conference sponsored by the Union of Concerned Scientists organization, that he will quit his commission post today. He said there have been 29 incidents of over-pressurization at 16 sites since 1969.

"Without prompt corrective action, it is inevitable, given a frequency of overpressurization incidents, that a catastrophic vessel rupture will occur," he said.

BENARD RUSCHE, director of the commission's office of nuclear power regulation, said some reactors had overpressurized as they were starting operations. He said there are wide margins of safety and the incidents do not warrant reactor shutdowns.

His comment was supported by Jerry Stanbrough, director of nuclear information at Commonwealth Edison Co., Chicago. The utility operates the Zion units.

Stanbrough said overpressurization incidents "have not affected the metallurgical integrity of the reactor vessel of related equipment," but an industry task force is studying related design improvements.

Stanbrough said Thursday's announcement is aimed at political action. Voters in six states will consider in November initiatives to restrict nuclear power.

In his statement, Fluegge said massive steel pressure vessels house a reactor's nuclear fuel. A rupture in the vessel could lead to a large scale release of radioactive materials.

Hearing set on pollution cleanup

Area residtnts are invited to comment on northern Illinois water pollution cleanup plans at a Tuesday meeting by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission. The hearing will begin at 9:30 a.m. at the agency's offices, 400 W. Madison St., Chicago.

Water pollution solutions for northern Illinois will be developed by NIPC under Section 208 of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act Amendments of 1972. The clean water plan, scheduled for completion in late 1977 will cover water pollution sources in Cook, Lake, DuPage, Kane, McHenry and Will counties.

Interested citizens also may telephone their comments to NIPC today. Calls will be accepted from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at 454-0400.

Written statements may be sent to: Procedures, NIPC, 400 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill. 60606. The deadline for comments is Oct. 29.

4th district more issue-oriented

A Herald staff report

Fifth in a series

The apathy found in many of the suburban legislative districts in the Northwest suburbs was not as strongly detected in the 4th Legislative District.

A series of interviews with residents of the district, which includes portions of Wheeling, Maine and Niles townships, indicated while a significant number could not cite any local issues that concern them, others listed concerns ranging from the traditional tax questions to problems over the government bureaucracy, crime, unemployment and mass transportation.

"Mainly taxes. They're pretty high," John Kostrzewa of Niles said. His initial reaction to The Herald questions about issues in the Nov. 2 election was typical of problems identified by many residents.

"There should be some way to minimize them, particularly property taxes. Education is the biggest problem," he said.

WHILE SOME voters were able to comment on issues they thought were of local concern, others admitted they were giving their attention to the presidential election or said they could not identify what the Illinois General Assembly was doing.

There was some indication that voters were concerned about how the government would find solutions to problems in the state.

"Unemployment, I wish I knew what could give people more jobs,. Mary Mahoney of Park Ridge said.

Ms. Mahoney and several others questioned also mentioned the abortion issue. Their remarks represented some of the rare instances when this issue, which has received much attention nationwide, drew response to The Herald interviews in the suburban legislative districts.

"There should be a state amendment against abortion. I don't want to be paying for other people's abortions," the Park Ridge resident said.

LEON RICH, another Park Ridge voter also wanted an abortion amendment, but he said the action should come from the nation's capitol.

The problems of senior citizens also drew some attention.

Reporters query voters

A team of Herald reporters interviewed voters and local municipal officials throughout the area in an effort to determine if they thought the issues in the upcoming election were the same as those listed by the candidates. The series will cover all of the legislative districts in The Herald circulation area. Reporters also attempted to assess over-all voter interest in the Nov. 2 election. This report on the 4th Legislative District, was prepared by staff writers Marsha Bosley and Bill Hill and Herald Political Writer Steve Brown.

"They could do a little better along the medical care line, the costs have gone up, some so high it is difficult for them to afford it," Catherine Keefe of Park Ridge said.

On the subject of transportation, R. E. Anderson of Arlington Heights said he favored the dismantling of the Regional Transportation Authority.

"The domination of Chicago and the legislature by Mayor Daley and his organization should be busted up," Anderson said. "The RTA is a mistake; the suburbs are getting shortchanged. All the money goes to the CTA."

A MORE GENERAL concern was voiced about government bureaucracy.

"The responsiveness of state officials; the state bureaucarcy seems to be unorganized. Perhaps there should be more inspection to cut down waste, Louise Winogard of Morton Grove said.

Bea Kramer of Niles commented on housing problems and crime, which she cited as the "utmost" problems she viewed as facing government.

Residents in the 4th Legislative District, however like other neighbors in the area, seemed generally not to have too much interest in the upcoming election.

"I don't follow politics, it doesn't interest me, and I get disgusted hearing the same thing — nit-picking and lies — over and over again," said June Lainwander of Niles.

But the general reaction of residents questioned might have been best typified by one elderly Des Plaines resident who said, "What do we have to choose from? They should keep on playing post office."

When you take part in our Dress-A-Doll or Design-A-Toy programs something nice does happen Christmas morning: a girl or boy has a happier Christmas. Your doll or your toy are gifts that wouldn't be there if you didn't care.

Pick up a doll now. It's free.

A doll, 19" tall, with moveable arms and legs, and eyes that sleep, is waiting for you. Come in, take one home with you. Design and sew an outfit for the doll, then return it to us. It will be judged, prizes will be awarded winners, and all the dolls will be displayed in our lobby for the public to admire and enjoy. All dolls will be Christmas gifts for needy children in the area.

A toy will make some little boy happy.

We have three styles of wooden trucks for you to choose from. Assemble and paint the toy and return it to us for judging and display. Like the dolls, a charitable organization will distribute the toys as Christmas gifts.

Dress-A-Doll... Design-A-Toy... warm ways to say "Merry Christmas."

You can make something very nice happen on Christmas morning.

Need more time to beat vandalism

After all the attention and energy expended in Arlington Heights during the past summer on preventing vandalism, it is discouraging to discover the problem has not yet been solved.

The most recent example of the continuing and inexplicable nature of vandalism occurred early Tuesday when about 20 traffic signs on two streets were damaged by people who got their kicks out of driving over them.

As discouraging as this newest incident is, it is also a sign that those concerned about vandalism must rededicate themselves.

This summer the village passed an ordinance making parents responsible for damage caused by their children.

That ordinance is a step toward gaining control of the vandalism problem, but as the latest incident clearly shows, it is not the total solution.

As long as there are people, either children or adults, who think destruction is fun, there will be a problem with vandalism. Laws can go part way to solving the problem by making the community position clear, but they cannot remove the disturbed and disturbing motives which causes the destruction.

The greatest deterrent to vandalism, as the village's parent responsibility ordinance points out, is the concerned action of parents who care about what their children are doing and set the example that clearly shows vandalism to be unacceptable.

It may be impossible at this point for the police to track down those who created the most recent incident of vandalism. However, increased vigilance by everyone who is in the position to witness an act of vandalism can help in the future to assure that such acts won't go unpunished.

It is clear the vandalism problem is still with us and will continue to be. However, dedicated parents and alert citizens can help to cut the problem to manageable proportions.

Village won in Dist. Court

An editorial Tuesday stated the Vilage of Arlington Heights lost the Lincoln Green zoning case in Federal District Court; in fact, the village won its case in District Court but was reversed in the Federal Court of Apeals. The case is pending before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Ray Cromley's column

What will legal gambling solve?

by RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — Men studying the problem of illegal gambling in this country estimate the total conservatively at more than $50 billion. Jimmy the Greek says $100 billion. Other claims run higher.

Though no one knows, there are estimates the gross income organized crime takes from illegal gambling runs around 20 to 25 per cent of the total before expenses, or some $10 billion to $12.5 billion out of the $50 billion figure. Net is much lower of course. For expenses are heavy.

Expenses include payoffs. No one knows how much these add up to. But it may be reasonable to guess that $2 billion to $3 billion of the $10 billion to $12.5 billion gross income is available for corrupting city, county and state officials, police and anyone else handy.

This guess includes only bribes from illegal gambling. Additional bribery money is available from the profits of prostitution, loan sharking, white collar crime and an assortment of other unlawful activities.

In some offices in some cities the situation is not unlike that in a foreign country in which I was once assigned. A young man I interviewed explained that he had wanted, since childhood, to enter the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. He didn't, he said, because once there he'd be forced to participate in the graft. If he entered and refused, he would be ostracized. He would receive no worthwhile assignments. Finally, things would be rigged and he'd be set up as a pigeon in a fake case. They wouldn't be able to tolerate him on the job for fear that, sooner or later, he'd blow the whistle on the lot of them.

It has not escaped attention here that in some American cities honest policemen have had equally rocky roads to cross.

The wonder then is not that so many politicians, bureaucrats and policemen are corrupt. The wonder rather is that so many remain honest despite the temptations regularly offered and the pressures roughly applied.

For it is my impression, in years of watching the bureaucracy — local, state and national—that most officials and most police in most cities and states are honest. But the minority who are corrupt can do a great deal of damage — to our safety, to our individual rights and to our pocketbooks. For bribery to permit illegal gambling does not stop there, as everyone knows. It reaches even to juries and to judges for all types of crime.

Laying out the problem is simple. The solution is more difficult.

We are not successful in enforcement. Take one major state as an example. In five years, 20,000 gambling operators were arrested. One hundred were convicted. Ten went to jail. It is believed most of those convicted and jailed were minor "sidewalk" operators.

As a result, there is a movement afoot to legalize gambling, or some gambling. Surveys by the Commission on the Review of the National Policy Toward Gambling, set up by the 91st Congress, suggest that close to two Americans out of three gamble legally or illegally at least once in any given year. And that 80 per cent of Americans (the figure seems high) favor legalizing one form of gambling or another.

But those figures are misleading. There is a great difference of opinion, even among those who favor more legal gambling, as to what types of gambling they'd make legal and which they'd frown upon. The state-run gambling thus far voted has been the subject of a great deal of criticism.

Leaving moral questions aside, there is a great deal of doubt, moreover, that legal gambling, even if universally voted in this country, would put a crippling dent in the illegal operations. Certainly this has not been the case in those instances where legalized gambling has been adopted.

In my experience, wide open towns have not been conducive to pormal family life and the raising of children.

Planned Parenthood Assn. director presents group's view on abortion

The oldest method of birth control, abortion, is still wrapped in controversy. Efforts to inject it as an issue into the current presidential campaign and to discredit recent Supreme Court rulings have subjected the public to misleading information both in the print and broadcast media. While women of all faiths, backgrounds and financial levels exercise their newly legalized freedom from compulsory pregnancy, others are still barred from the simple choice of whether or not to bear a child.

Frequently broadcast is the theme of the right of the unborn fetus, a theme which pretends to be a "humanist" point of view, but which, in reality, reduces the unwillingly pregnant woman to a level of slavery which would be intolerable under any other circumstance. In fact, while slavery and race are often hinted at by anti-abortion groups, implying that abortion leads to slavery or genocide, it is the poor and the black in this country who are most frequently denied access to safe legal abortion and who must choose between unwanted child-bearing or illegal abortions. There is also clear misrepresentation of the Supreme Court's recent ruling that minors do not require parental consent to obtain abortions. To suggest from this that the role of the parent is being eroded totally ignores the fact that almost every state legislature in this country has long since passed laws allowing minors to obtain prenatal care without parental consent. These same legislatures have also provided for minors' consent to care relating to drugs and to treatment of venereal diseases. The point is that the critical need for access to care in each of these uctuations had to be recognized or the affected minor would be subjected to even greater morbidity or mortality risks.

Other instances of misinformation are often encountered. For example, early abortion is said to be a dangerous procedure. Early abortion is seven times safer than childbirth. Nor is there one iota of evidence to support the cry that it causes subsequent infertility or birth defects. But even these facts are meaningless to the woman who must examine for herself what her future will be.

WE REALIZE that our society is pluralistic and there are those who oppose abortion on religious or moral grounds. Planned Parenthood itself believes the avoidance of unwanted pregnancy through the consistent employment of effective contraception is far preferable to the termination of pregnancy through surgical abortion.

We encourage those who oppose abortion to join us in actively making available those educational programs and contraceptive methods which would reduce the need for abortion. These include the implementaton of educational programs on sexuality, and support for the medical and scientific communities which are working to develop safe, effective contraceptives not subject to occasional failure or adverse side effects.

Additional funds for family planning services must be made available and women of all ages must be allowed access to these services. Research to develop better methods of contraception must be continued and greatly increased. But until those funds and that research are realities, women will seek abortion and we will defend for them the right to choose it.

Residents dispute Poklacki letter

In response to Erwin S. Poklacki's letter concerning the proposed unit district, appearing in the October 8 Fence Post, we as citizens of Arlington Heights south of Central Road feel obligated to challenge his statements.

Perhaps Mr. Poklacki should be reminded that he — along with 900 other residents of south Arlington Heights — last spring signed the petition requesting withdrawal of the Committee of Ten's proposal for a unit district.

Has Mr. Poklacki forgotten that he personally approached organizers of the above mentioned petition on May 3, 1976, suggesting that possibly it would be in the best interests of parents in the Juliette Low area to withdraw from Dist. 59 and become a part of Dist. 25 in order not to become involved in the proposed unit district?

M.R POKLACKI ACCUSES Dist. 214 of ". . . halftruths, innuendoes, and falsehoods." What are they?

Dist. 59 and 214 are within their rights to circulate materials concerning the unit district prior to referendum according to the opinion of the legal department of the Illinois Office of Education. For examples of similar materials already distributed by Dist. 59, we refer Mr. Poklacki to the two issues of the Fifty-Niner dated Feb. 1976 and June 1976.

Mr. Poklacki stated that "It seems the Dist. 214 Board . . . would not consider a mutual tuition-transfer policy." If he had contacted Dist. 214 administration, he would have been advised that 214 has never been officially approached by Dist. 59 or the Committee of Ten to either accept or refuse this possibility.

In a meeting with Dr. Gilbert last spring he assured us that regardless of the outcome of this unit district question, his primary consideration would be the well-being of all the students in the area and would resolve matters accordingly.

Mr. Poklacki says that the unit district board would allow the Dist. 214 children to continue at Forest View. How can he possibly speak for a board that is not yet in existence?

On the matter of "taxation without adequate representation," Dist. 59 residents supply Dist. 214 with 27 per cent of its students and 28.5 per cent of its board of education members. What could be more adequate representation?

In conclusion, Erwin Poklacki is not speaking for all the Arlington Heights citizens south of Central Road. We, too, are residents of this area and after nine months in depth study we cannot find any educational or financial advantages to a unit district.

Refuse collection change questioned

The recent conversion to once a week refuse pick-up in Hoffman Estates was presented in an announcement as a positive situation for the village residents. In reality, it appears that the benefits mainly have accrued to the scavenger service. They can complete their responsibility to the village in one day as opposed to daily pick-ups by area. This, I am sure, has resulted in a savings to them. I'm wondering what savings, in dollars and cents, the village residents have received. Let's forget the rhetoric surrounding the announcement of the new system, why haven't we realized a savings with this new procedure?

By entering into this new agreement, did the village give the scavenger service the authority to begin their pick-ups at 6 a.m.? In checking with the village clerk's office, we do have an ordinance prohibiting construction noise prior to 7:30 a.m., but not governing the scavenger service equipment. Have you ever heard the noise that one of these trucks make, especially at 6 a.m., when the rest of the village is still, for the most part, asleep?

The scavenger service was hired to provide a service to the village, but I, and many others, consider it a disservice to be rudely awakened by the disturbance which they create. If they cannot do their pick-up in one day, starting at reasonable hours, then let's go back to the old system.

Cost of living up 0.4%

Consumer buying power declines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American worker's buying power decreased in September as the cost of living went up 0.4 per cent and the average workweek grew shorter, the U.S. Labor Dept. reported Thursday.

The increase in the Consumer Price Index was the smallest since April. Combined with reduced working hours it produced a 0.5 per cent decline in real spendable earnings — money left after taxes, Social Security and adjustment for inflation.

This left earnings 0.8 per cent lower than a year ago. In its final report before the election, the Labor Dept. said the cost of living rose at an annual rate of 4.8 per cent.

THE PRICE INDEX, the most closely watched inflation indicator, stands at 172.6 per cent of its 1967 base of 100, meaning goods and services worth $100 nine years ago cost $172.60 in September.

President Ford's top economist, chairman Alan Greenspan of the Council of Economic Advisers, said the relatively small price rise in September foreshadowed a modest increase in inflation for the remainder of this year.

Press Sec. Ron Nessen told reporters "the White House is pleased" with the latest report, saying it is "further evidence of a reduction in inflation."

In Plains, Ga., Ford's Democratic opponent, Jimmy Carter, commented: "Real weekly earnings today are 2 per cent below what they were when Mr. Ford took office . . . The average worker has been on a treadmill for the last two years, and is sliding backwards fast in the midst of what Mr. Ford calls a recovery."

THERE HAD BEEN some concern among economists in recent weeks that inflation might be on the upswing again, particularly after the Wholesale Price Index jumped 0.9 per cent in September.

Greenspan said this fear now appears to be unfounded and that the nation will experience "moderate, perhaps lower inflation" in coming months.

The government statistics showed the main reason for the inflation rate slowdown was a leveling off in food prices in September — the first time in six months they have not risen.

Prices for commodities other than food — such as autos, clothing and gasoline — rose by 0.4 per cent in September, compared to 0.6 per cent in both July and August.

The cost of services rose 0.5 per cent after three consecutive months of 0.6 per cent increases.

For the third quarter as a whole, inflation grew at an annual rate of 5.8 per cent, compared with 6.1 per cent in the spring quarter. In the first three months of this year, prices rose by 2.9 per cent.

Growing fuel costs called too costly

An auto industry official warned Thursday that the United States may not be able to afford the social and economic costs of doubling vehicle fuel economy by 1980 as recommended by a government task force. William D. Eberle, president of the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers' Assn., said the task force goals technically are possible but achieving them might cost jobs and result in cars the public does not like. A representative of the American Lung Assn., Dr. Carl Shy of the University of North Carolina, also expressed reservations about the proposed goals. Shy said fuel economy should not be allowed to compromise improvements in auto emission controls. Eberle said Shy testified at a federal hearing on the goals for fuel efficiency in 1980 and beyond, which were presented last month by President Ford's Energy Resources Council.

Natural gas price-hike lowered

Natural gas prices will cost consumers more under Federal Power Commission regulations, but a recent commission statement sets the increase at a rate lower than originally anticipated by gas producers. The clarification would make the new rates the commission announced July 27 total $1.462 billion in additional revenue to producers, rather than the $2.042 billion producers had estimated — a 25 per cent eduction of some $580 million. James F. Flug, director of Energy Action, said the commission's action is a "token recognition that the commission made a grievous error in its original calculations and its decision to triple natural gas prices." A spokesman for Northern Illinois Gas Co., which serves natural gas consumers in the northern third of the state, said Thursday the utility has not determined the impact of the commission's clarification on its service rates.

Ford assembly plants to close

The Ford Motor Co. Thursday said the continuing strike by 3,700 workers at a key manufacturing plant will force it to begin closing assembly and parts plants that have been open less than one week following a 28-day strike. A Ford spokesman said at least eight of the 13 assembly plants now in operation and "several" manufacturing plants would begin closing today. In the next few days, at least 40,000 employes will be laid off, he said. The first assembly plant to close will be at Chicago, which reopened late last week following the end of the national strike. Ford spokesmen would not say what other plants will have to close because of parts shortages. The key to the parts problem is the Cleveland, Ohio, stamping plant where negotiators have been unable to reach agreement on a local pact for 3,700 workers to supplement the national agreement ratified Sept. 12. Another problem plant the Sheffield, Ala., aluminum casting plant, with 1,200 workers — reached agreement Thursday. Top company and United Auto Workers bargainers took charge of the local negotiations Thursday, trying to settle the dispute at Cleveland.

NICOR earnings increase 45c

NICOR, Inc., reported earnings of $3.69 per common share for the 12 months ended Sept. 30, a 45 cent increase from the previous 12-month period. C. J. Gauthier, NICOR chaimran and president, said revenues and net income totaled $784 million and $54.9 million, respectively, compared to the previous figures of $676 million and $48.4 million for 1975. NICOR is the parent company of Northern Illinois Gas.

Sola reports record 2nd quarter

Record sales and earnings for Sola Basic Industries are reported for the second quarter of fiscal 1977 by Frank Roby, chairman and president. Net earnings for the three-month period ended Sept. 30 totaled $1,896,708 or 54 cents a share on sales of $44,926,403. For the second quarter last year, the company reported earnings of $1,679,777 or 49 cents a share on sales of $38,869,081. Roby said first-half earnings were $3,700,185 or $1.06 a share on sales of $87,372,244. The Milwaukee-based manufacturer of electrical and electronic equipment has a facility in Elk Grove Village.

Firm barred from fund-raising

Fund-raiser Patrick Gorman, his brother Martin P. Gorman and ther multiple affiliated companies are barred from further solicitations in Illinois under an order entered this week by Cook County Circuit Court Judge Nathan Cohen, following a two year trial. The Gormans were ordered to repay $528,231.52 to a fund for widows and children of slain law enforcement officers. More than 3,000 Illinois residents had responded to mailings on behalf of the Police Hall of Fame, Inc., in Venice, Fla. Atty. Gen. William Scott said. Unauthorized mailings and unreasonable fund-raising costs were cited by Cohen. During one phase of the fund-raising campaign in 1973, donations to the fund totaled $299,622 while costs were listed as $298,988 or 99.8 per cent of donations. The Gormans' affiliated companies, based in Washington, D. C., include Patrick J. Gorman Consultants, Inc.; Helix, Inc.; and Washington Information Services, Inc.

you're not just dressing a doll, you're giving Christmas to a child!

enter our doll fashion contest

Again this year, we ask your help in our annual doll fashion contest which provides beautiful gifts for needy children in this area. And there's fun and prizes in it for you, too. Any adult or child may enter by picking-up a free doll during banking hours. Then simply create and sew a designer outfit of your own and return the dressed doll to the bank by November 16th. The dolls will be placed on display in the bank lobby.

five $25 prizes to be awarded

The public will have the opportunity to view all the dolls and vote for the five they like best. $25 cash prizes will be awarded to each of the winners (one child under fifteen and four persons over fifteen). And when the voting's over, all the dolls will be given to needy children in our area to help make their Christmas a little brighter. So hurry, while the dolls last. Start right away and make the most beautiful costume of all. Remember, you'll also be making Christmas for a needy child.

New law reduces estate taxes

Speaking dollar-wise

by Robert S. Rosefsky

Congress has passed the Tax Reform Law of 1976 and Prsident Ford's signature seems assured before Congress adjourns.

The Wall Street Journal recently editorialized that the new law, some 1,500 pages long, is as complex as Tolstoy and as gloomy as Dostoevski. I don't know whether an interpretation by Rosefsky will lighten your spirits, but I hope that I can light some beacons that will help you take fullest advantage of what the new law offers you. This, then, is the first of a number of columns, interspersed over the next few weeks, geared to aid you in understanding what Congress hath wrought.

One of the most drastically revised parts of the tax law has to do with the federal estate and gift taxes.

The good news is that many thousands of estates that formerly would have been bitten by that tax will no longer be subject to the levy.

The bad news is that heirs may now have to pay taxes that the estate itself might have avoided.

Here are the highlights. See your own tax adviser for details as they may affect you specifically.

Prior to the new law one spouse could leave up to one-half of his or her estate to the other spouse, and thus remove that amount from taxation. Under the new law that amount is increased from one-half of the estate to as much as $250,000 (for estates under $500,000 in value). This device is known as the "marital deduction." It is not automatic. You have to take specific steps and use the proper wording in your will to accomplish this deduction. If you don't do it, nobody will do it for you.

Also prior to the new law, the first $60,000 of an estate was exempt from taxes. That's after all deductions, including the marital, have been taken into account. A simple example: in an estate with a total value of $200,000, half is left to the surviving spouse. There are another $10,000 worth of eligible deductions. Subtracting the marital deduction of $100,000 and the other deductions of $10,000 from the total, we're left with $90,000. And $60,000 of that is exempt from the federal estate tax. The tax on the remaining $30,000 would be $3,000. That comes out of the estate's funds, leaving that much less for the heirs.

Under the new law the exemption is changed into a credit, and it includes the former gift tax exemption. The net effect of the whole change is that the first $120,677 of an estate, after deductions, will not be taxed. That figure will rise to $175,625 by 1981 — a built-in protection against the effect of inflation on one's assets. Under this new law the above estate, in the example, would not be taxed at all.

But now the heirs might be. The rules are complex, but the ultimate result can look like this: Uncle Joe bought some stock many years ago for $10,000. At his death it was worth $50,000. Because of the personal exemption of $60,000, the estate paid no tax. Joe's heirs received the stock at the $50,000 value, and immediately sold it for that sum. Thus nobody ever paid a tax on the $40,000 gain in the value of the stock over the years.

Now, though, the law will require that the heirs own the stock at the same value that Joe paid for it — $10,000. Thus if they ultimately sell at $50,000, they'll have to pay the capital gains tax on the profit.

The new law also sets forth guidelines as to how assets are to be valued with respect to the Jan. 1, 1977, start date of this provision. See your tax adviser for details. It can mean thousands saved or sent to Uncle Sam.

Dow falls 9 pts., closes at 944

NEW YORK (UPI) — Institutions sold heavily late Thursday, driving prices sharply lower for the first time in five sessions in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the latest government figures created more investor uncertainty about the health of the economy in this election year and heightened tensions over the outcome of the Nov. 2 presidential election between President Ford and Jimmy Carter.

As a result, the Dow Jones industrial average, ahead about three points early in the day, fell 9.97 to 944.90. The blue-chip average, a 4.90-point winner Wednesday, had clinbed 18.97 in the previous four sessions.

THE NYSE COMMON stock index lost 0.48 to 53.85 and the average price of a common share decreased by 29 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, lost 0.97 to 100.77.

Declines topped advances, 882 to 529, among the 1,877 issues crossing the tape.

Volume totaled 17,980,000 shares, up from the 15,860,000 traded Wednesday. Volume lately has been heavier on the downside than up, reversing a trend that has existed for two years.

Prices closed lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased by four cents. Volume totaled 2,100,000 shares, compared with 1,710,000 traded Wednesday.

Use The Want Ads—It Pays

ZERO MOSTEL AND WOODY Allen, both comic actors, star in straight dramatic roles in "The Front." The film is based on real-life incidents in the 1950s, when movie and television talents were blacklisted. "The Front" opens today at area theaters.

'Front' takes serious look at blacklisting

by GENIE CAMPBELL

(A review)

"The Front" is strong stuff — the kind of thought-provoking film that leaves a lasting, nightmarish impression and produces societal heart burn.

Where all of Woody Allen's movies have been poignantly funny, this one is tragic. While "The Front" marks the first time the comedian has been cast in a straight role, the film is far more significant for its content than for its proof that the slight, bespectacled actor can appear serious.

In the past, Allen has at least partially collaborated on the writing of all movies in which he has appeared and, with the exception of the film version of his Broadway hit, "Play It Again Sam," has also directed every film. Except this one.

THE WALTER Bernstein script was submitted. Allen liked what he read and agreed to appear in the movie because the subject matter was important enough "to be brought to the attention of today's moviegoers, many of whom are either too young to know about or else have forgotten the horrors of the McCarthy Era," said Allen when he accepted the role.

And that's what "The Front" is all about — the anti-communist hysteria of the 1950s when members of the entertainment industry, in particular, were hard hit.

Writers, technicians and performers alike were indiscriminately blacklisted as communist sympathizers by the powerful House Un-American Activities Committee (HUAC). There was seldom any proof. Many talented persons lost their jobs or were labeled "unemployable" just because of inferences made by self-appointed patriots.

"The Front" is set in New York during the early '50s when television was just beginning to gain prominence.

Flashbacks to old household commercials and newsreels help set the period.

ALLEN PLAYS Howard Prince, a small-time bookie and restaurant cashier who is persuaded to act as a "front" for blacklisted television writers unable to write under their own names. They supply Prince with scripts. He submits them under his own name.

It's an easy life. Prince gets a 10 per cent cut off the top and becomes famous besides. Both his love life and lifestyle take a turn for the better.

Though a virtual klutz, and politically unaware besides, Prince is continually followed by security officers who finally get enough on him to bring him before HUAC. He can either compromise and cooperate or go to jail.

Highly predictable, Allen still gets laughs. Even in a straight role, his sad-sack countenance is comical, often providing amusing relief in a movie that otherwise might wear out people.

Yet at other times his previous credits work against him. He appears ridiculous when he should look suave. Woody Allen has been at comedy too long to go straight. But then he doesn't intend to make a career out of it. "The Front" was just a fluke.

THE REAL ACTING star of this show is Zero Mostel, who just about plays himself — in more than one way. In "The Front" Mostel plays a renowned TV comedian whose career is shattered when he is blacklisted.

For Mostel there really was a hiatus of 14 years between 1952's "The Model and the Marriage Broker" and 1966's "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

That's because Mostel himself was blacklisted in 1952. And this personal experience is brilliantly relived in his performance. He is even more incredible in the role of a doomed entertainer than as the happy-go-lucky, God-fearing peasant farmer he popularized in "Fiddler on the Roof."

Nevertheless, in looking back at his being victimized, Mostel has no bitterness. In retrospect he looks upon it as almost a blessing in disguise.

His career was in a rut. When the blacklist struck and Mostel couldn't act any longer in films, he returned to the New York stage (where blacklisting had far less effect than in movies or television), a move which eventually elevated him to his present stardom. But, of course, Mostel was lucky. Many other actors were ruined for good.

ALSO INTERESTING to note, both Martin Ritt, the director, and Bernstein himself were once blacklisted.

The film also features Herschel Bernardi as the television pro-

TELEVISION ACTRESS Andrea Marcovicci makes her film debut as a television script editor and the romantic interest of Woody Allen in "The Front," a Columbia Pictures release rated PG.

PAUL SMITH, Director of the Museum of Contemporary Crafts in New York, shows a walnut chest with cradle by Sam Maloof, a California artist-craftsman.

Two out of five do it

Crafts boom is more than a fad

by JEANNE LESEM

We watch TV. Our cars almost drive themselves. Many of us have very mechanical jobs.

These are among the major reasons behind the fast-growing crafts movement in the United States, according to Paul Smith, director of the Museum of Contemporary Crafts of the American Crafts Council in New York.

"Crafts give us a chance to make something that gives us a feeling of accomplishment," Smith said.

"That element (of our lives) certainly is going to increase. It is not just a fad."

THE GROWTH IN crafts is illustrated by a national survey commissioned last year by the Associated Councils on the Arts. It found 43 per cent — two out of five — of those interviewed said they engage in such creative activities as photography, painting or sketching, woodworking and weaving.

The American Crafts Council, with 37,000 members, lists 1,500 schools offering crafts courses through master degree programs and 1,800 shops or galleries offering contemporary American crafts.

The World Crafts Council, organized in 1964, now has 85 member nations.

A crafts fair in upstate Rhinebeck, N. Y., this summer grossed $2 million. Another at Gatlinburg, Tenn., in the Great Smokey Mountains grossed more than $7 million.

Smith says it doesn't matter whether a person makes clay pots and pans and clothing for everyday needs or ceremonial art. Any or all of these give the maker "the opportunity to say, 'I did this. This is me.' "

TO SMITH, EVEN graffiti on the subway are self-expression in the world of arts and crafts.

Smith said the arts and crafts movement began during the early part of the century. "In the late '20s and early '30s crafts started to become part of the university system."

Then it got "a whole new start after the war. The G. I. Bill was very important. It sponsored a lot of people at universities. A lot of private art schools sprang up.

"In the early days crafts were considered an oddity. We used to think old is better, more accomplished — Roman pottery, Oriental porcelains. We cannot say that today."

HE SAID MANY professionals all over the U.S. were working in crafts in the early '50s. They were very skilled, but much of their work reflected the European, Scandinavian and Oriental influences. Many of their teachers had been born and trained abroad. All that has changed, he said.

"There is no national style now in the United States. Our school system allows individuality," Smith said, pointing out examples:

In the museum's permanent collection is a handsome walnut chest with cradle by Sam Maloof, a California artist-craftsman. There is a ceramic cross by Peter Voulkos, whom Smith described as one of the most influential clay artists in the U. S. and a man of world influence.

And, there is Sweet Monument, part of the Celebration Cake Exhibition the museum staged to observe its 20th anniversary. Students from the Culinary Institute of America worked around the clock to make the frosting for Spanish artist Antonio Miralda to decorate an inedible cake about six feet tall.

"INCREASING NUMBERS of people earn their entire living from handmade pottery," Smith said.

"The fiber arts used to be mostly flat weaving. People got bored with it, so now we have offloom and sculptural weaving and woven forms. We have knotting, knitting, crocheting.

"It's so hard to know what is most popular," he said.

One of the fastest growing crafts is glass-blowing.

Studio glass-blowing did not exist in U. S. schools until the early 1960s.

"In 1972, over 100 different glass artists were working in the United States, and over 50 glass departments existed in American schools. They're all over," Smith said. "It's just incredible."

SMITH'S MUSEUM organized 200 shows during its first two decades. It has exhibited works by more than 2,500 artists. All its shows now travel. This spurs interest in crafts. It also creates a problem.

"When you get so big, not all things are good. We need to improve standards of workmanship and quality."

Fabray makes 'em laugh though story line weak

by PAT ADAM

(A revivew)

Make me laugh, please, begs drama critic Martin Gottfried in the opening program notes for "The Secret Affairs of Mildred Wild," as he laments the passing of clowns and comedy.

And Nanette Fabray and cast do their darnedest to oblige at Drury Lane North, though playwright Paul Zindel, the man who brought us "The Effects of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds," has not provided them with a very strong vehicle to display their talents.

Of course, Fabray and laughter are synonymous for those who remember her from NBC-TV's Sid Caesar show in the 1950s, a show that netted Fabray three Emmys—two for Best Comedienne and the other for Best Supporting Actress. And these after she'd already been a success on Broadway.

ONLY RECENTLY returned to show business after a long absence, Ms. Fabray in "Mildred Wild" plays a woman starved for both excitement and romance and seeking them in movies when real life falls short. If Mildred's not reading about stars in the film mags, she's watching them on screen, or playing the games on TV.

Asked why she's so hooked on movies, Mildred replies: "They help me, they tell me what to do. When I have problems, they show me what to do."

And probems Mildred's got. She and husband Roy are about to be evicted from their candy store-backroom quargers with no place to go. Her sister-in-law nags her about moving. And her landlady tries to make out with Roy while Mildred's at the movies.

WHEN PROBLEMS PILE up, Mildred retreats to her dream with herself as star in a number of famous movies. The dream sequences enable Fabray and co-stars Ron Beattie (as Roy) and Eugene Anthony (in a variety of roles) to clown around in some of the play's funniest scenes. There's also opportunity for Fabray to demonstrate she still can warble and hoof it with the best of them.

Mildred wins a TV telephone quiz, and it seems her dreams are about to come true . . . till the prizes are delivered. As sop to her disappointment, she's to appear in a movie scene, but even that turns sour. And Mildred's back to dreaming again.

Thanks to Fabray, Beattie and company, an otherwise not too funny play makes us laugh. (She could probably do that if she only stood there and fluttered her fabulous lashes.)

BEATTIE EVOKES sympathy in his role as Mildred's husband, whose only talent seems to be making charlotte russe. Anthony delights with his impersonations of some memorable female characters from now-famous films . . . Scarlett O'Hara's maid and Ginger Robers' showgirl friend.

Lillian Evans is excellent as the landlady who's into encounter groups, primal screams and other psychological shenanigans. Mary Seibel plays Roy's nagging, self-righteous sister who prods the couple to move into a Staten Island convent being vacated by its nuns, while Anne Edwards is Sister Cecelia, the nun who gets tipsy on diocesan spirits.

Allison Giglio appears as a snippy quiz show representative and Robb Alton in several walk-on parts.

"The Secret Affairs of Mildred Wild" will be at the theater in Lincolnshire through Dec. 5.

'Marathon Man' finishes a loser

Review

by GENIE CAMPBELL

The much publicized "Marathon Man" left me perplexed and gave me a toothache. I expected neither.

I was confused because I didn't understand the movie enough to know what was going on half the time; my teeth hurt because Laurence Olivier really does a number on Dustin Hoffman in a torture scene that no doubt will set dentistry back 50 years.

"Marathon Man" promises a lot but delivers very little. It's frustrating. There is a great deal of action and intrigue, but very little is explained.

Before scolding myself for not having read the book first (though it shouldn't have to be a prerequisite), I questioned friends who had. Surprisingly, it seemed to make little difference.

GRANTED, THEY WERE a bit more enlightened than I, but still out of touch with much of the plot. Some stories are hard to bring to the screen, and apparently this is one of them because William Goldman, who wrote the novel, also did the screen play. And who better would know how to translate his own book?

Hoffman stars as Thomas Babbington "Babe" Levy, a student at Columbia University who is working on his doctorate in history. Babe's father, who was a history professor at Columbia, committed suicide when Babe was only a child, after having been labeled a Communist sympathizer in the '50s.

That has nothing to do with the plot except that Babe feels his father was never vindicated.

If this is meant to expose a nerve, it doesn't. If it is an attempt to dramatize a new, popular movie theme, the dark days of McCarthyism, it's feeble and masked. All it does do is provide for some slow motion flashbacks.

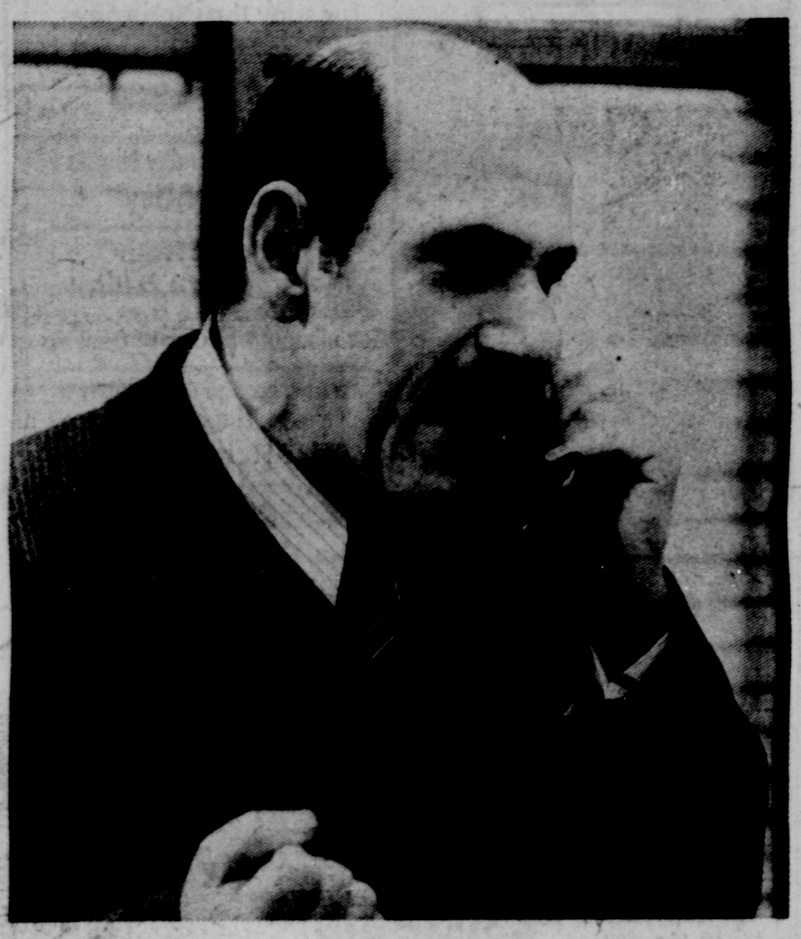
BABE IS ALSO A long-distance runner, which makes him the title character of this film. He continually pushes himself — perhaps to make up for his father, to cover up his own weaknesses. Moviegoers never get to know Babe well enough to figure out exactly why.

But it's Babe's older brother (Roy Scheider) who is caught up in international espionage that lays the foundation for the plot. Enemy No. 1 is Dr. Christian Szell, also known as "The White Angel," a Nazi dentist who tortured prisoners during World War II.

He maintains a low profile in South America until greed forces him out of hiding and to New York where he intends to pick up a fortune made while taking advantage of Jews during the war.

THE REST OF THE picture pits Hoffman against the contemptible Szell. Babe is not even sure why he is being held and interrogated except he knows it has something to do with his brother, which puts him almost on an even par with the audience.

"Marathon Man" in total represents a waste of talent though Olivier comes out strongest and best. He is truly evil. Hoffman looks as if he's trying his darndest, but the character of Babe remains merely scratched. I doubt on film it could be developed further.



HERSCHEL BERNARDI stars as a harassed television producer in the 1950s who accepts scripts from a "front" for blacklisted writers.

. . . 'The Front'

ducer who is appalled by the widespread network of blacklisting but afraid to take a stand for fear of losing his own job.

Andrea Marcovicci plays a demure television script editor who falls in love with Prince the writer, unaware that he can hardly write his own name.

Having been pluckedfrom the ranks of soap operas (she played Betsy Chernak in the serial "Love Is A Many Splendored Thing,"), Miss Marcovicci mixes the right amount of shyness and vulnerability with stamina as she begs Prince to team up on an underground newspaper to condemn blacklisting.

Her performance is good, though I doubt a young woman would have so easily attained her position back in the early '50s — unless, of course, they had already run out of men.

ALLEN AGREED TO act in "The Front" because "it was one of the best pieces of material that has ever been offered to me. People who offer me material to do generally offer me comedies, and I'm not interested in them because I write my own; I don't need them.

"This was a very substantial political script, so it was interesting to try and act in something serious and, of course, something with a political position that expresses me," continued Allen. "I would not do a film that didn't express me politically.

"I hated McCarthy, I hated blacklisting, the whole concept of it. So to that extent it expresses me politically."

With sensationalism played down, "The Front" is a truthful commentary on an ugly time in the history of our country that has been, no doubt, refueled recently by Watergate. Scandals make for good viewing. Nevertheless, it's one story that should be told. And "The Front" does a beautiful job of doing it.

Movie guide

Designed to help readers decide which movies they want to see, this guide includes a listing of movies currently playing in the Northwest suburban area plus capsule summaries and comments, based on reports of the Independent Film Journal, for selected films of interest to readers.

"From Noon 'Till Three" — Charles Bronson makes an unsuccessful stab at romantic comedy in Frank D. Gilroy's misfired, semi-absurdist gall tale about a craven western outlaw who is immortalized beyond recognition after his supposed death and returns only to be institutionalized as a deranged imposter. Neither Bronson, wife Jill Ireland nor Gilroy's script are believable enough to make it work. (PG).

"Godzilla vs. Megalon" — Slim story as usual but also a generous helping of action and laughs in the monster slugfest, as Godzilla and a robot battle beasts from beneath the earth. (G).

"Great Scott and Cathouse Thursday" — Another trip back to the new Old West where frontier heroes cuss, carouse and cheat each other silly. Lee Marvin and Oliver Reed team against former buddy Robert Culp who made off with their gold years before. A solid cast but a routine script. (PG).

"Gator" — The script picks up Reynolds' Gator McKlusky character, now on parole from moonshining time in a sequel to "White Lightning." Also stars Lauren Hutton and Jack Weston. (PG).

"Silent Movie" — Mum's the word from Mel Brooks in this big-budget contemporary silent movie that unleashes a cascade of sight gags, pratfalls and broadly comic set pieces, linked to the connecting story of a minor studio's last-ditch efforts to avoid bankruptcy. Stars Mel Brooks, Marty Feldman and Dom Deluise.

Dessert yourself to death

You'll need a lot of will power to resist the new dessert bar at Henrici's Steak and Lobster dinnerhouse in Arlington Heights.

A "chocoholic" could have a breakdown from frustration over what to select — except that you can have as much as you want of any and all of the delicious delicacies. And for a total of only 68 cents — with your dinner.

Chocolate Bavarian pie, chocolate chip Bavarian pie, chocolate torte, chocolate petit fours, chocolate almond rum balls, chocolate eclairs, black forest chocolate cake and old-fashioned double chocolate cake are all included.

For those who prefer something besides chocolate, there are all kinds of pastries, cheesecakes, fresh fruits, melons, cheeses and other delights. A guest may also create his own ice cream sundae.

THE DESSERT BAR idea is largely new to the Chicago area and Henrici's has done an excellent job at its Arlington Heights restaurant, located on Arlington Heights Road just south of Algonquin. The dessert bar area is beautifully arranged and is a real highlight of dining. Dinner is served seven days a week.

Changes also have been made in both the luncheon and dinner menus with a greater emphasis on seafoods. The Bucket 'O' Bounty dinner is a seafood feast for two that includes two fresh whole lobsters, Alaskan crablegs, mussels, clams, corn-on-the-cob and boiled potatoes.

Other new dinner selections include sauteed rainbow trout stuffed with crabmeat and a fresh catch-of-the-day fish entree.

HAVING ALREADY looked over the dessert bar and made mental notes of the many goodies I would indulge in, choosing an entree was not easy. I settled for steak and a crepe filled with crabmeat in sherry. I ate the crepe, which was delicious, and to save room for the desserts (I ate six) took the sirloin butt steak home in a doggie bag.

My meat-and-potatoes husband chose just that — prime ribs and baked potato. He was served four toppings for his potato — bacon chips, butter, sour cream and sour cream with chives. He loved it. His prime rib was good but not excellent, the same, he claims, as most other restaurants these days. (My leftover steak was excellent the next day.)

OUR LARGE LETTUCE salads were crisp and cold, and we didn't even miss the salad bar we have become so used to in most restaurants. Our loaf of warm sourdough bread was delicious. Service was very good.

Dinners ranged from $5.50 for baron of beef (pink slices of roast beef au jus) to $12.50 per person for the Bucket 'O' Bounty. Extras include onion rings and sauteed mushrooms, both $1.25, and fried artichokes, $1.50.

Prices are a far cry from the Henrici's of 1868 when the slogan was "All you can eat for a quarter," but its policy of value for the customer and truly enjoyable dining is the same now as it was way back when.

ORIGINALLY A SMALL coffee house on State Street in Chicago, the fledgling business prospered until it was burned to the ground in the Great Chicago Fire.

The next Henrici's, on Randolph, became a landmark until the entire block was razed in 1962 to make way for the new Chicago Civic Center.

The restaurant chain now numbers five steak and lobster houses and three other restaurants, all in the Chicagoland area.

THE MINIATURE studio above is an exact duplicate of the real one. It was built from the same wood, 110-year-old poplar. The leather sofa was handmade from one of Mrs. Whitney's kid gloves. At left is a cutaway of the main house showing roomfuls of hand-crafted, tiny furnishings.

Scale-model dollhouse for show, not for play

Eight years ago Cornelia Vanderbilt Whitney asked her mother for a dollhouse.

Marylou Whitney complied. But it took six years to complete just the main house of the doll-size estate and both the expense and work involved were far greater than any 9-year-old girl could ever realize.

In fact, the project, an exact replica of the Whitneys' Kentucky estate, Maple Hill, is considered more a work of art than a plaything.

One wouldn't think of disturbing the miniature furnishings, many of which were painstakingly crafted by skilled workmen on the Whitney farm who used dental tools for the more delicate carving.

BUILT FROM WOOD that was used in the original 1790 farmhouse, the main dollhouse, constructed to one-twelfth scale, has a Federal facade that lifts electrically to reveal the 13-room interior.

An ongoing project, the estate now includes, in addition to the main house, the guesthouse and artist's studio where both Whitneys paint. A Roman atrium, stables and log cabin chapel will complete the entire estate in miniature — to be just like the real one.

The dollhouse is an exact duplicate, right down to the parquet flooring. In the living room alone 2,790 tiny pieces were used. Some of the miniature chandeliers contain more than a thousand crystals; the miniature books in the library are real and can be read; and in the guest house, a minute set of hand-crafted, sterling silver mint julep cups contain make-believe ice and tiny mint leaves.

Paintings in the studio, patterned off those actually executed by the Whitneys, have been reproduced on minute pieces of linen, and the playable gold harp in the living room is tuned to E flat.

ANTIQUES ABOUND. The front hall contains a pair of 16-taper candelabra that are replicas of those in the Palace of Versailles, a Hepplewhite table and chair (1785-1800) and a three-finial grandfather clock.

Some of the furnishings are more personal than valuable. The pair of ivory elephant tables in the upstairs sitting room of the guesthouse are carved from chessmen of a set that has been in the family for generations. The leather sofa in the art studio is made from one of Mrs. Whitney's kid gloves and the bedspread in the grandmother's bedroom, is cut from her wedding handkerchief.

The three dollhouse buildings are currently on display at Wally Findlay Galleries, 814 N. Michigan Ave., through Oct. 30. Hours are 9:30 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. except Sundays. Admission is $2 for adults; $1 for children, with all proceeds going to the Antiquarian Society of the Art Institute of Chicago, whose primary interest is in the field of decorative arts.

ALSO ON SALE is "Cornelia Vanderbilt Whitney's Dollhouse," a book by Marylou Whitney recently published by Farrar, Straus & Giroux, $25. Proceeds from the gallery sales of Mrs. Whitney's book, which traces the history of the home and the people who lived in it, are also going to the Antiquarian Society.

The actual Maple Hill has a history dating back to 1790 when John Rogers built a double log cabin from wood that had earlier been used to construct a fort on adjacent property. In 1796 they built a new brick house and slave quarters, using some of the original logs for ceiling beams in their cellar.

This house is the nucleus of the present Whitney estate, and the slave quarters have been transformed into a luxurious two-bedroom, two-bath guesthouse with its own kitchen and living room. It is often referred to as the "Princess Margaret House" because it is here she and Lord Snowdon stayed during a visit to the United States.

—Genie Campbell

Chicago film festival set

More than 40 countries will be represented by feature films in the 12th Chicago International Film Festival to be held Nov. 5-18.

Films highlighting the best of the Cannes Film Festival as well as the German, Swiss and New York festivals will be shown at the Biograph (2433 N. Lincoln) and Uptown (4816 N. Broadway) Theaters.

International directors, stars and critics will discuss their works and anaswer questions regarding the 10 different categories of films presented. Besides the traditional documentaries, short subjects and educational films, there will be presentations of TV commercials, children's entertainment films, and television and multi-media productions.

IN ADDITION, the festival, directed by founder Michael Kutza, will present "film discoveries" from entries submitted to the film committee before Oct. 8.

The premiere showings of more than 30 feature films are expected to attract larger audiences than the 80,000 total attendance last year, which set a national record for film festivals.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

There's just no way you can spot reduce

I would like some information on getting rid of fat in certain areas of the body. I read that when you lose weight or fat, you lose it over your entire body. The weight I gain seems to settle in my hips and seat.

I'm not overweight; I just need rearranging. How do I get rid of fat in one place and stay the same or not get skinny in the other areas that are just fine?

Also, could you tell me what exercises are good to flatten the derriere?

I've got news for you. You are overweight. There is no such thing as spot reducing. You have to be on a general weight reduction program to get rid of fat even if you seem skinny in some areas, such as the face.

You have two problems, loss of muscle mass in the face, neck, arms and gain of fat below the chest. The way you go about rearranging yourself is to recognize you have two problems, not just one.

It is a perverse aspect of nature that causes us to lose fat in our face first and last in the abdomen and hips area. A good program is to do exercises to build up muscles in the skinny places and be on an exercise diet program to lose calories and get rid of the unwanted fat deposits.

Do isometric exercises for your face. That means contracting each group of facial muscles that you can identify several times each morning — between three and ten times is enough for each group.

Also do exercises that use your arms and chest muscles. Push-ups, pull-ups and windmill exercixes are all good. Be sure to use exercises that help pull your shoulders back to maintain good posture for you. These are movements of the arms in a backward fashion as you do if you are swimming the backstroke.

You can help tone up sagging muscles in the abdomen with sit-ups and you can tone up that "derriere" with old fashioned bumps and grinds.

To help you in your rearranging program I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-7, Girth Control: Avoiding The Big Middle. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

I recently read an article in a well known magazine about skin care. It said that lack of vitamin A can cause such skin diseases as psoriasis or even cancer. I would like to know if this is true, if taking vitamin A orally would relive psoriasis.

I am appalled. Vitamin A deficiencies can cause skin problems, but such a deficiency will not cause either psoriasis or skin cancer. And they are not the same thing.

If you have quoted the article correctly, it is one more example why people should be careful about getting health information in articles not written by doctors. Many so-called health magazines are the source of much of the health misinformation and folklore that people read.

Taking large doses of vitamin A on your own can also lead to vitamin A toxicity. Such misinformation can really be harmful to people.

Ammonia solution cleans rhinestones

Dear Dorothy: My rhonestone earrings have become dull looking. They're not expensive, but were so pretty when new. Is there a way to clean them? — Elsa Sappenfield.

Almost all jewelers sell a solution for cleaning jewelry, but for the inexpensive items a number of readers have reported a solution of mild dishwashing liquid to which a drop of ammonia has been added is all that's needed. It just takes a swish or two. A cautionary note is needed here: Any kind of solution with ammonia in it is a no-no for pearls. There's a special solution sold just for pearls. People who travel a lot carry a small brush and toothpaste to keep costume jewelry clean. Whatever you do, cleaning or rinsing, work over a bowl or dish when standing at the sink. It's too easy for a small piece of jewelry to fall into the drain.

Dear Dorothy: Started to press out a few wrinkles in a drip-dry shirt and the iron started to stick to the material. Decided the iron was a bit too warm for a synthetic material so turned down the heat. But the iron sort of stumbled along, instead of gliding, and enough synthetic was sticking to make it impossible to finish. I'd bought some 0000 steel wool for work on some furniture so got it out. A quick rub on the sole plate and the iron went on to function perfectly. — Margo Peters.

Dear Dorothy: Occasionally I eat applesauce that has a lovely reddish color. What's in it to produce this? — Nina Furguson.

Red apples probably were used — cooked with the skins on. The applesauce is pushed through a sieve and the skin color would provide the tint.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60006.)

Bernadette Duwez-Keith J. Kramer

When Bernadette Jean Duwez and Keith Jay Kramer were married Sept. 18 in St. Hubert Catholic Church, the bride's uncle assisted in the ceremony.

The Rev. Nicholas Duwez came from his own parish in Philippeville, Belgium, to take part in the marriage service of his niece, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jean Duwez of Hoffman Estates.

Bernadette and Keith, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kramer, have known one another since the two families moved to Hoffman Estates in 1959, and both graduate from Conant High School.

For her marriage the bride wore a long-sleeved dress with French Guipure lace bodice and a waist-length veil appliqued with the same lace. Both were sewn by her aunt, Mrs. Susan Hampton of Mount Prospect. The all-white bridal bouquet contained one orchid, carnations, stephanotis and baby's breath.

BERNADETTE'S sister, Dannie Preucil of Schaumburg, was her maid of honor, and the bridegroom's sister, Carolyn, and Carol Bowen, Schaumburg, were bridesmaids. All three wore aqua colored dotted swiss gowns with short-sleeved jackets and carried white baskets filled with blue daisies, white carnations and baby's breath.

Keith's brother, Jim, from Michigan, was his best man and Jim Hampton, the bride's uncle from Mount Prospect, Steve Kressner and Paul Majewski, Hoffman Estates; and Robert Weisz, Itasca, were ushers.

The reception took place at Apple Orchard Country Club, Bartlett.

After a honeymoon in Quebec, Canada, the newlyweds are living in the new home they purchased in Schaumburg before their wedding.

Bernadette, a graduate of Harper, is a computer programmer for Western Electric, Rolling Meadows, and Keith, a University of Illinois-Circle campus graduate, works as a computer programmer for Walgreen's, Deerfield.

Go to brunch and help buy a bus

The Friends of Clearbrook Center will hold their 13th annual fund-raising brunch at the Arlington Park Hilton Hotel Nov. 7 with proceeds going to buy a special wheelchair bus.

One of the season's major social events in the Northwest suburbs, the brunch will take place in the Jimmy Durante Room. Tickets may be purchased now through Oct. 29 at $12.50 each. They are available from Mrs. Jane Sawtell of Arlington Heights, 1976 brunch chairman, 392-0054, or her co-chairman, Mrs. Brooke Nelson of Palatine, 991-3769.

Over the past 13 years The Friends of Clearbrook have raised more than $112,000 through this annual brunch. These funds have been used to buy such specially needed equipment as a fork lift and heat shrink tunnel for the Vocational Rehabilitation Center, mobile building units and kitchen equipment for the day school and for remodeling and expansion.

The bus that will be bought with this year's proceeds costs some $10,000 and will be equipped with an electronic lift to help children and adults enrolled at the center who are non-ambulatory or require a wheelchair f.. mobility.

Clearbrook Center serves 250 developmentally disabled infants, children and adults living in Maine, Wheeling, Elk Grove, Palatine and Schaumburg Townships. Mrs. Jan Impey, Arlington Heights, is this year's president of the Friends of Clearbrook.

They'll come to the fair

All units of the Homemakers Extension Association of north and south Cook County will participate in a Homemakers Fair Tuesday at the Brementowne Mall in Tinley Park.

Theme for the fair, opening at 10 a.m., will be "Homemaker Happenings," and all sorts of arts and crafts that have kept unit members busy the past year will be on display. The public is invited.

'Harvest Hoedown'

A square dance for members of Palatine Welcome Wagon Club will be held Saturday, Nov. 6, at 8 p.m. at the Plum Grove Club, Palatine. The cost is $10 per couple, including food and a beverage.

Reservations are due Wednesday by calling 359-3626 or 358-2177.

THE WILLIAMSBURG WING.

A place of pride for those in need of nursing care.

When Americana created the Williamsburg Wing, they did it to add a further dimension to health care: elegance.

The Williamsburg Wing is so beautiful it's hard to believe it's in a health care center. But it is. It's special, even spectacular, but it is unquestionably a part of a health care center.

In the Williamsburg Wing, patients receive fine food served in a private dining room. Each room is magnificently decorated and furnished. The sitting room is pleasantly opulent. All over, the atmosphere is quietly, devotedly luxurious.

THE WILLIAMSBURG WING—for people who are accustomed to more. The Williamsburg Wing is not for everyone. It is for those with an appreciation of more tasteful living. It provides the best of two worlds—privacy, elegance and the special services of its staff—and the ready availability of the professional and therapeutic services of the adjoining Americana Healthcare Center.

Call us for an appointment to visit and inspect our accommodations, services and professional staff.

Bacteria do big job for living things

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Betsy Bussung, 13, of Barrington, Ill., for her question:

DO BACTERIA DO ANY GOOD?

The tiny beasties that share our planet generally are lumped into one large group and unscientifically called germs.

Too small to be seen without the aid of a microscope, they rarely enter our thoughts except, perhaps, when we fall victim to an invasion of one of them and suffer an illness. All germs, however, are not bacteria. This general term also includes viruses, protozoa and other assorted microscopic creatures.

Just as a movie thriller has heros and villains, there are the good guys and bad guys in the bacterial world. The bad guys cause us a great deal of pain and discomfort. On the other hand, the good guys are very useful, and, yes, even necessary to life.

One of the most important jobs that helpful bacteria do for us is to decompose dead organic matter in the soil so it can be reused by plants. Each day countless numbers of insects, plants, birds and other animals die.

The complex substances that make up their cells and tissues are broken down into simpler substances that can be used by living plants and animals. Without the feverish activity of these decomposers, the earth would soon be covered with dead matter.

The air surrounding the Earth is composed of almost 80 per cent nitrogen. This important element is necessary to living cells, both in plants and animals. The problem is, however, that plants and animals cannot simply extract the needed nitrogen from the air — it must come from the soil. Certain bacteria have the ability to convert nitrogen into a form that can be used by plants and by animals that eat the plants. Without the aid of these bacteria the soil would soon become poor in nitrogen and eventually plants and animals would suffer.

Bacteria also are used by men in the production of many foods. Buttermilk, yogurt, cheese, vinegar and sauerkraut are just a few that depend on these tiny helpers. Other bacteria help preserve crushed corn stalks and other silage eaten by cattle. The tanning and textile industries use bacteria in the preparation of hides and certain clothes.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Robert Woods, 12, of Truro, Iowa, for his question:

WHY DO PEOPLE THROW RICE AT WEDDINGS INSTEAD OF OTHER GRAINS?

The origin of certain customs sometimes is difficult to track down. Often you wind up with a number of possible answers. The custom of throwing rice at the bride and groom probably came from India. Rice has long been a symbol of fertility among people, and to be showered with it on your wedding day is a wish to be blessed with good luck and many children. In some countries, however, the bridal pair is showered with nuts, corn or wheat.

Tin cans and old shoes tied to the back of the wedding vehicle are supposed to make a lot of noise, the purpose of which is to frighten away bad spirits.

According to another custom, the groom carries his bride across the threshold of their new home to make sure that mischievous spirits do not get a chance to trip her. Of course, this would bring them bad luck. Throwing the bridal bouquet is supposed to pass on the bride's good luck in getting a husband to some other unmarried woman.

2 comedies fail to make it, get ax

NEW YORK (UPI) — The new television season is into its fifth week and CBS has decided it's time for a change, cancelling "Ball Four" and "Doc," announcing a "production hiatus" for "The Blue Knight," and reshuffling two nights on its schedule.

The two hours which the cancellations and "hiatus" leave in the lineup will be filled by movies.

Wednesday and Saturday nights will have a new look, starting with Saturday, Nov. 6. That's when "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" will go back an hour from 8-8:30 to 7-7:30 p.m., to be followed by "The Bob Newhart Show," which also turns back the clock an hour from its present time.

"ALL IN THE Family" and "Alice," which have taken up the 8-9 p.m. Eastern time slot on Wednesday nights will move into the same period on Saturday. "Carol Burnett" remains in place.

Wednesdays, beginning Nov. 10, will have a new look on CBS also, although they will start prime time as usual with "Good Times." "The Jeffersons" will follow from 7:30-8 p.m., and from 8-10 p.m., it will be Wednesday night movies, starting with Charles Bronson in "Death Wish" the first week and "Chinatown" with Jack Nicholson the second week.

CBS, last in the ratings among the three networks for the first time in its history, becomes the first network to make changes this season. And there may be more, considering the sad ratings of "Spencer's Pilots."

NBC, which ran in third place last year and caused an uproar by announcing cancellations only three weeks into the season, this year is in second and a spokesman said no cancellations were anticipated at the moment.

ABC, No. 1 this year, also is sticking to its schedule.

False discard pulls plug

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

South bid his hand like there was no tomorrow, but the way the cards lay he was sure to make his six-heart contract.

He started out perfectly. Clubs were opened and continued. He ruffed the second club and went over to dummy with the king of diamonds. Then he lead a heart to his queen.

With hearts breaking 2-2 and the finesse working, how was South able to get himself set?

It wasn't too difficult. All it required was a little bit of misdirection by British internationalist Jonathon Cansino, who sat West. Jonathon dropped the jack of hearts under the queen. Jonathon had seen that his jack of trumps was worthless. South had bid a lot as it was and surely held a six-card heart suit.

The false card worked like a charm. South decided that East had started with three hearts and it was up to him to get back to dummy to finesse a second time. The only way go get there was to ruff a diamond. He tried to do that, but East overruffed.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Red Machine completes sweep of Yankees, 7-2

NEW YORK — A rejuvenated Johnny Bench, a broken down part of the "Big Red Machine" during the season, helped the Cincinnati Reds become the first National League team in 54 years to win consecutive World Series Thursday night by crashing a pair of homers and driving in five runs to spark a 7-2 triumph over the New York Yankees that completed a four-game sweep.

It marked the first four-game sweep in the World Series since 1966 when the Baltimore Orioles took the Los Angeles Dodgers, and in winning back-to-back world championships the Reds became the first NL team since the 1921-22 New York Giants to achieve that distinction.

It was somehow fitting that Bench would emerge as the hero of the final game, since he struggled through the worst season of his big league career. Bothered by injuries, he batted only .234 and hit just 16 home runs with 74 RBI's. But throughout his career he has always had the reputation of coming through in the big games and once again he responded to the challenge.

Bench's first big moment came in the fourth inning. The Reds trailed 1-0 but quickly tied the score when Joe Morgan walked, stole second and scored on a two-out single by George Foster. Bench, batting seventh in the Reds' powerful lineup, then unloaded a drive off Ed Figueroa that hit off the left field foul pole for his fourth World Series homer.

It was the second clutch home run for Bench in post-season competition this year. He hit a dramatic two-out homer in the ninth inning of the third game of the NL playoffs against Philadelphia and the Reds went on to win that game.

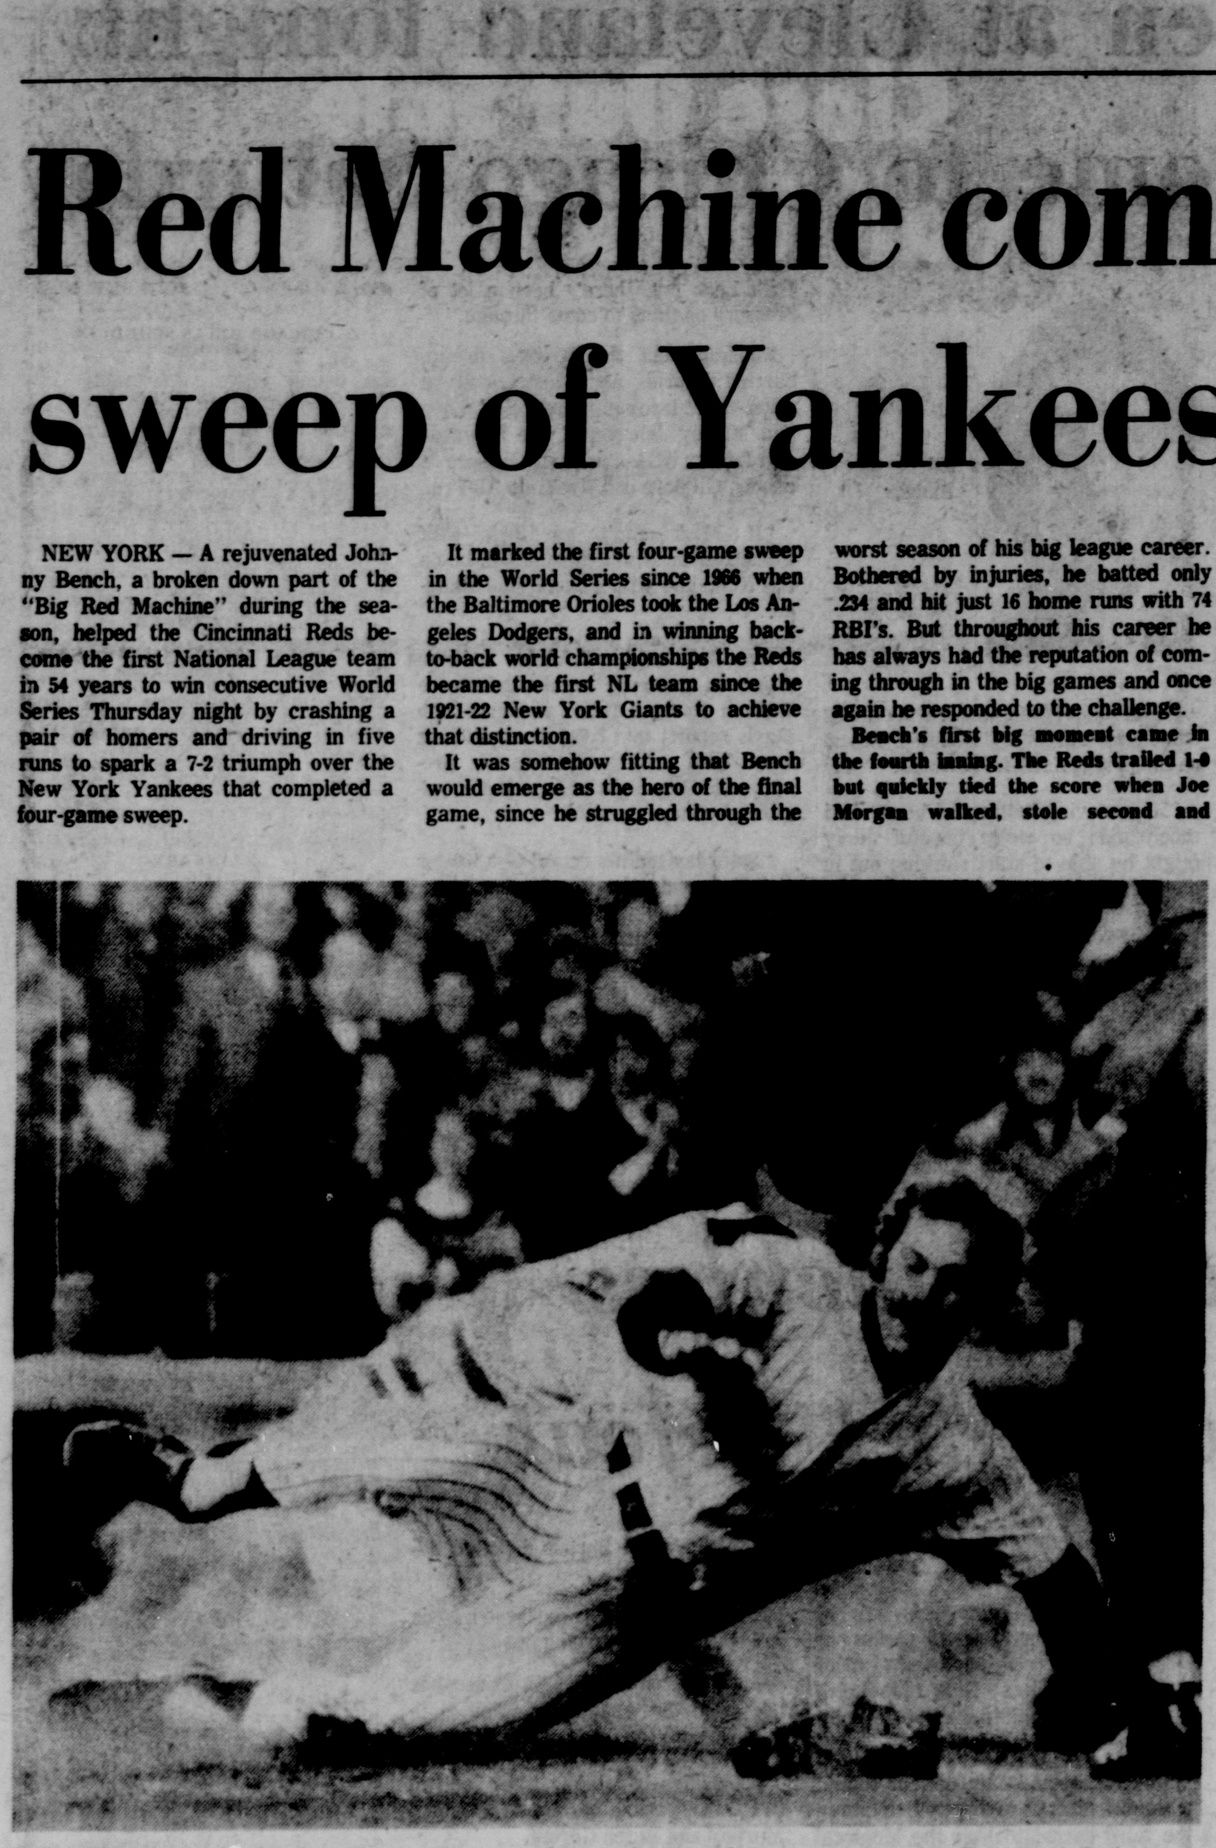
Bench wasn't through, however. In the ninth, after walks to Tony Perez and Dan Driessen, he lined a shot into the left field seats off reliever Dick Tidrow to trigger a four-run inning that wrapped up the contest. The Reds then rubbed salt into the Yankee wounds by adding a run on successive doubles by Cesar Geronimo and Dave Concepcion.

Bench finished the Series with eight hits in 15 at bats and received Sport Magazine's award as most valuable player.

Gary Nolan and Will McEnaney also figured prominently for the Reds in the final game. Nolan, a disappointment in three previous World Series, won his first Series game by allowing eight hits in 6 2-3 innings while McEnaney pitched hitless ball over the last 2 1-3 innings. The Yankees failed to score off a Reds' reliever in the Series.

The Yankees did have scoring chances, but once again it was their failure to hit in the clutch and some careless baserunning that took them out of two big scoring opportunities.

Only Thurman Munson, who had a perfect 4-for-4 and tied a Series record with six consecutive hits over two games, was consistent for the Yankees. Munson singled and scored the Yankees' first run in the first inning and singled home the other run in the fifth.



NEW YORK Yankee catcher Thurman Munson barrels home with the first run of the fourth game of the World Series against the Cincinnati Reds. Munson also had an RBI later in the game.

BATTLE PLANS. Fremd High School coach Joe Samojedny issues instruction at a football practice session. The Vikings will entertain Arlington tonight in a North Division engagement that highlights the area schedule.

Go, Rockets!

Slippery Rock is everybody's 'alma mater'

Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

Slippery Rock.

Just the name brings a smile.

They say the best way to get there is to fly into Pittsburgh, rent a car and find a good road map.

You'll drive through such exciting towns as Monaca and Zelienople and finally reach Interstate 79. You're not too far now.

When you reach Main Street (what else?) in Slippery Rock, you swing a right and go three blocks to the campus entrance and the Old Main Tower.

There it is! There actually is a Slippery Rock State College, home for 6250 students.

Situated in the beautiful woodlands of Western Pennsylvania, the school is located on a spacious, rolling campus that encompasses more than 600 acres. The students are mostly graduates from high schools within a 50-mile radius.

Slippery Rock. It's everybody's "unofficial alma mater" with perhaps more football fans than any school in the nation. Maybe even more than Notre Dame's fabled "Subway Alumni."

Not many outsiders actually show up in this small (5,000 residents) Pennsylvania town on a football Saturday, but people across the country wait for that final score.

And the score booms out over loudspeakers in Ann Arbor and Columbus and Norman and Lincoln, football hot spots. Announcers across the country report, with enthusiasm, "We have a score from the East! Slippery Rock 42, California of Pennsylvania 6!"

The crowd cheers. More smiles. Good ol' Slippery Rock has done it again.

ABC-TV makes a special point to mention the Slippery Rock result on its scoreboard show each Saturday.

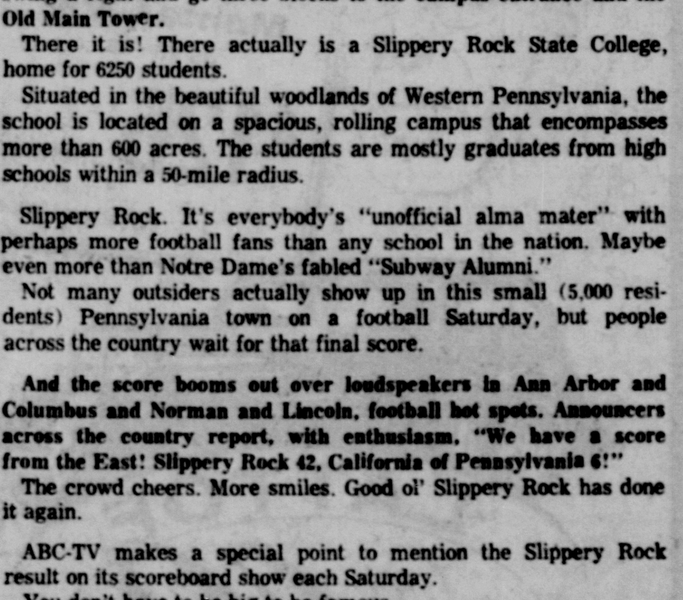
You don't have to be big to be famous.

Is it just the unusual name that makes people ferret out this obscure score each Saturday?

What is this phenomenon called Slippery Rock that prompts calls to newspapers and radio and television stations?

"We're aware of the national attention here at the school," said John Carpenter, sports information director at Slippery Rock. "Sometimes, though, I wonder if the people in our surrounding areas and towns actually appreciate just how much interest there is in the school.

"Sure, our name has a lot to do with it," he continued. "The legend is that during the settling of the area in the 1700s some troops were chased by Indians and able to escape by crossing a creek. The Indians couldn't get across because of the slippery rocks involved, and the stream eventually became known as Slippery Rock Creek."



The real push nationally came from a story in 1936 by sportswriter Bill Cunningham.

Minnesota and Pittsburgh were the top-rated teams in the nation in '36, but the Associated Press and United Press wire services disagreed on what school should be No. 1. It became such a hotly-debated item in the press that Cunningham, working for a Boston newspaper, started the ball rolling for Slippery Rock.

Cunningham wrote a story "proving" Slippery Rock should be national champion because "The Rock" beat Westminster, which beat West Virginia Wesleyan, which beat Duquesne, which beat Pitt, which beat Notre Dame, which beat Northwestern, which beat Minnesota.

"It just seemed to take off from there," said Carpenter. "Now, with the unusual name and the attention given with our score each weekend we get requests from all over the country for bumper stickers and sweatshirts, anything with the Slippery Rock name on it."

They may joke about the Rockets (official nickname) or "The Rock," but Slippery Rock is considered one of the finest physical education schools in the East. There's a natural student interest in all sports.

"We have 22 sports for men and women," said Carpenter, proudly pointing to a bronze medal picked up by a Slippery Rock wrestler in the 1976 Olympics.

"Football, basketball and wrestling are probably our big sports, but we have excellent facilities for practically everything. We seat 10,000 at our football games and play pretty near capacity.

"It's basically a relaxed atmosphere here," said Carpenter, "but the football team has had some outstanding seasons and we like to win like anyone else."

The Rockets won the Pennsylvania Conference title for three straight years and played in two NCAA bowl games. They've upgraded their schedule and it shows in a 3-3 record this fall.

Two losses came to Texas A & I, top-ranked team in the NAIA, and C. W. Post, a power in NCAA Division III.

"Texas A & I didn't think they were getting enough attention," said Carpenter. "I guess they figured playing Slippery Rock would help get them some national exposure. They beat us, 58-7."

Slippery Rock shows college football almost from another time, a simpler time, and it's so very refreshing. The good nature and finances of fans are being drained everywhere. The fan needs to smile.

It happens every Saturday.

"In college football today it was Slippery Rock . . ."

Just the name brings that smile.

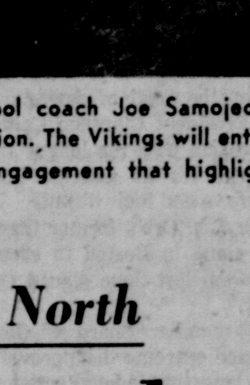
Three games in North

Fremd to host area feature; Arlington visits

by KEITH REINHARD

For one, it's a case of being able to determine their own destiny.

For three others, it's a case of hoping that the destiny includes an uncovered manhole or a discarded banana peel.



Chuck Haines

This is how the Mid-Suburban's North Division race sizes up with the home stretch just ahead. Hersey is the one in control. Arlington, Buffalo Grove and Fremd can only hope for a Huskie slipup some time during the next two weekends.

After tonight, there probably will be only two teams left in pursuit. While Palatine entertains Hersey and Buffalo Grove visits Wheeling, Arlington will be at Fremd in the feature confrontation on the schedule.

"Yes, I guess you could say this game is important," said Viking coach Joe Samojedny. "Another loss and we're eliminated."

His club, along with the Cards and Bison, sits at 2-1 while the Huskies are in command at 3-0. Samojedny's team does have one advantage over the schools they are tied with. They haven't played the Huskies yet.

But the Cardinals come first. "Arlington has three good receivers and a quarterback that is improving with each game," continued the Vike Coach. "They're not afraid to throw. We have to protect against their big plays . . . home run throw or the long run."

Veteran Tom North is the key Arlington performer. He hauled in four tosses for over 100 yards and two TDs against Wheeling last week and now ranks as the No. 1 receiver in the area this fall.

The four catches also upped North's conference total to 10, and 42 over his three years on the varsity. It pushed him past former Hersey standout receiver Marty Friel (now playing for Illinois) into eighth place on the all-time MSL career list.

North is also third now on the career pass reception yardage list (at 800), having just passed Buffalo Grove grad George Bastable at 796.

Tom North

While Samojedny was talking up the offense, Arlington coach Chuck Haines was praising the Cards' defense. "They've chalked up 15 straight shutout quarters now. Rick Godwin has been especially impressive for us, along with Jay Lenahan, Rich Reeves WELCOME, DOCTOR. Julius Erving, a/k/a Dr. J., shakes hands with Philadelphia 76er owner F. Fitz Dixon after signing a contract reportedly worth $3.5 million. Erving is widely regarded as the finest basketball player in the history of the game.

Dr. J. to play for Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA — New York Nets' superstar Julius Erving, saying he hoped he could "finish out my career in Philadelphia," Thursday signed a $3 million contract with the Philadelphia 76ers, making him the highest paid pro basketball player in history.

Philadephia General Manager Pat Williams said it was not club policy to disclose terms of the contract, but informed sources said it was a six-year, $3 million pact.

Erving, 26, who held out after the New York Nets refused to renegotiate his contract, said he believed he would be staying with the Nets as of 4 p.m. Wednesday.

"I stated during my holdout that my first preference was to continue to play with the Nets," said Erving, his wife, Turquoise at his side.

"I had a conversation with Mr. (club owner Roy) Boe," he said. "He told me he was evaluating four options; hold onto this position, sit down and talk with me, trade me or sell me. I had hoped we could sit down and resolve our differences."

But Erving said he "preferred to deal with the present" and said he was joning the 76ers to bring an NBA championship to Philadelphia.

"I appreciate the deal and my decison to become a Philadelphia 76er," he said. "Hopefully, I can finish out my career in Philadelphia."

Near agreement on Orr case

TORONTO — The National Hockey League Thursday appeared close to heading off a court battle between two of its member clubs over the worth of superstar defenseman Bobby Orr.

NHL President Clarence Campbell, following a five-hour emergency session with the league's Board of Governors, said the Chicago Black Hawks and the Boston Bruins had nearly set up a procedure to end their dispute.

The Bruins, Orr's former team, have filed suit in United States district court in Boston to receive compensation from the Black Hawks, who last June signed Orr as a free agent to a $3 million contract.

The 18-member Board of Governors adopted a resolution that "expressed extreme disapproval of the Boston and Chicago hockey clubs in resorting to legal action to resolve their dispute.

"The league has strenuously urged both parties to resolve their differences without resorting to further legal action."

Campbell said that representatives of the Hawks and Bruins would remain here, hopefully until a formula is arrived at that would forestall upcoming court appearances.

Bears lose Shanklin for season

CHICAGO — The Chicago Bears Thursday announced the loss for the season of wide receiver Ron Shanklin due to a knee injury. The team said it has signed free agent Randy Burks, a rookie, to replace him.

The Bears also said receiver Bo Rather was questionable for Sunday's game against Dallas because of a right knee injury.

Burks, a 5-10, 170-pound wide receiver from Southeastern Oklahoma State University, was an eighth round draft choice of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Shanklin was placed on the injured reserve list for the remainder of the season.

Warrant issued for Marvin Barnes

DETROIT — A warrant has been issued against Marvin Barnes, already under suspension by the Detroit Pistons for missing practices, charging him with trying to carry a concealed gun on board a plane he was taking to St. Louis Oct. 9.

Barnes finally contacted the National Basketball Association team Thursday after being silently absent since Tuesday, when he missed the first of three practices that led to his suspension. He told the Pistons he would report immediately.

The 6-foot-9 former ABA All-Star forward, expected to be one of the Pistons' mainstays this season, was released on his own recognizance after allegedly attempting to board a plane with .38 caliber revolver in his carry-on luggage. No date has been set for a court appearance.

Knicks, Rockets win openers

The National Basketball Association opened their season Thursday night and the New York Knicks and Houston Rockets both jumped off to a quick start.

Rudy Tomjanovich ripped off 11 straight points midway through the fourth quarter to lead the Rockets to a 120-104 win over the Atlanta Hawks.

Tomjanovich finished with 20 points while teammate Mike Newlin led everybody with 33 points. John Drew had 29 points for Atlanta.

Bill Bradley and Jim McMillian combined for 32 second half points as the Knicks spoiled the coaching debut of Jerry West with a 102-97 win over Los Angeles.

Bradley came off the bench to score 12 points in the final seven minutes of the third quarter.

McMillian scored eight points in each of the final two quarters against his old teammates. Earl Monroe led New York with 21 points. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar had 29 for LA.

NCAA puts Gophers on probation

MISSION, Kan. — The University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, and the University of Nevada, Reno, were placed on probation Thursday by the NCAA for eligibility infractions.

Minnesota is on probation indefinitely, and Nevada for one year. The NCAA probations prevent the schools from participating in any post-season games or appearing on any NCAA-controlled televised event.

Arthur J. Reynolds, chairman of the NCAA Committee on Infractions, said both schools were advised they were violating the association's eligiblity rules but continued to use the players in question.

Bulls open at Cleveland tonight; Pacers come to Chicago Saturday

The 11th season of "Medical Story," heretofore known as the Chicago Bulls, will open as scheduled tonight in the Cleveland Cavaliers' home base, midway between Akron and Cleveland.

Coach Ed Badger also called "Doc" by his players in recent days, has an injury list that's almost as awesome as his starting lineup.

"I've learned more medical terminology in the past four weeks than in 17 previous seasons of coaching," Badger remarked after placing two more players — forwards Scott May and Jack Marin — on the club's ever growing injured list.

"We could field a pretty fair club with our five injured players," he added. The latest additions complete a front line which could include 6-foot-10 rookie center Dallas Smith and a backcourt of Jerry Sloan and Leon Benbow.

May and Marin are suffering from mononucleosis, an infectious disease normally associated with collegians whose study habits don't include enough rest. May is expected to miss 10-14 games before returning to action; Marin isn't expected to be available for practice until after Nov. 1.

Ed Badger

Smith and Sloan are recuperating from knee surgery. The latest report on Sloan is optimistic, however.

"He's moving better and hasn't had much pain so we're hopeful Jerry might be able to start working out in a couple of weeks," said Badger.

Benbow, a 6-4 veteran, has the playmaking skills so sorely needed behind Captain Norm Van Lier. John Laskowski will be at the other guard spot.

"It's been tough on Norm and we know he can't play 48 minutes," said Badger. "We haven't been satisfied with the development of our younger guards, especially in their defense. With Leon out, there's been a lot of pressure on them to come through."

Rounding out the starting lineup, barring injuries and illness, will be seven-time leading scorer Bob Love and Mickey Johnson at the forwards and former ABA star Artis Gilmore at center. Gilmore is a five-time All-Pro.

"If Mick can't go then Cliff Pondexter or Eric Fernsten will be on the front line with Love," said Badger.

The Bulls will return for a home game on Saturday night against the Indiana Pacers. Ticket manager Bob Davis reports that 3,600 season tickets have been sold, exceeding the previous opening night season ticket advance by more than 500.

"Saturday night's crowd of 8,100 for the Nets was the largest exhibition crowd the Bulls have ever drawn in the stadium," said Davis. "We hope to top the record opening night crowd of 9,000 set several seasons back."

Tickets are on sale at Chicago Stadium or at all Ticketron locations. Individual game tickets are priced at $8.50 for loge, $6.50 for mezzanine, $4.75 for first balcony center and $3.75 for first balcony circle.

Flyers hand punchless Black Hawks 5-1 defeat

From Herald wire services

Center Mel Bridgman, who spent most of the week in a Toronto courtroom, scored a pair of goals Thursday night to lead the Philadelphia Flyers to a 5-1 National Hockey League victory over the Chicago Black Hawks.

Don Saleski, who with Bridgman and two other Flyers were ordered to stand trial on charges stemming from a fight at a Stanley Cup quarter-final game in Toronto last spring, added a goal and two assists as Philadelphia improved its record to 3-3-1.

The Flyers jumped off to a 2-0 lead on first period goals by Saleski and Gary Dornhoefer but Chicago, playing without Bobby Orr, pulled to within 2-1 50 seconds before the end of the opening period on a goal by Darcy Rota.

Bridgman then scored his pair of goals, converting Saleski passes at 15:01 of the second period and 11:55 of the third period. Rick MacLeish tipped in a Dornhoefer drive to complete the Flyers' scoring.

Steve Shutt and Guy Lafleur scored within 29 seconds of each other late in the third period to lead the Montreal Canadiens to a 5-3 win over Toronto.

The Maple Leafs led 3-2 when Lafleur popped home his second goal of the game and ninth of the season at 17:29 of the third period to tie the score.

Dennis Maruk scored a pair of goals and chipped in assists on two others as the Cleveland Barons defeated the St. Louis Blues 6-2.

Maruk has now scored seven goals and six assists in seven games.

Guy Charron's goal with 49 seconds left lifted the Washington Capitals to a 5-5 tie with the Los Angeles Kings.

The Kings had taken a 4-2 lead in the third period on goals by Mike Murphy and Butch Goring.

Two win in soccer action

Forest View got a pair of goals from Tom Sroka and Arlington got three assists from Bill Brown as both the Cardinals and Falcons posted wins Thursday.

Forest View handled Prospect 4-1, peppering Knight goalie Norb Radatz, who had to make 34 saves.

Besides Sroka's goals, George Brousalis had a goal and assist and Wolfgang Klein drilled home a goal unassisted.

Santiago Bustamente had Prospect's only goal.

Arlington tipped Buffalo Grove 3-2 as Mike Doering, Brian Wachlin and Kurt Wiebe all scored goals assisted by Brown.

Arlington goalie Rick Bakas made six saves as the Cardinals improved their record to 5-5-2. The Bison's goals were scored by Gorey and Courdery.

Hersey and Elk Grove fought to a 0-0 tie after two overtimes.

Magic number is one

Grens could wrap it up

by ART MUGALIAN

The magic number for Elk Grove's football team is one.

The Grenadiers, 4-0 in the Mid-Suburban South, need just one more victory to clinch their first division title since 1973. Coach Don Schnake's team will go after the clincher Saturday afternoon at Hoffman Estates.

There is another way Elk Grove can wrap up the division title this weekend. A Conant loss to Forest View tonight would virtually hand the Grens the championship.

Conant's Cougars, currently tied for third place in the South with a 2-2 mark, are the only team with a shot at Elk Grove. Forest View (3-2) and Prospect (2-2) have already lost to Elk Grove, and though Prospect could sneak in via a three-way tie, the odds of that happening are very slight.

Few observers figure Elk Grove will drop their final two South games, either. But there is one man who won't rule out the possibility.

That would be Conant coach John Ayres.

"I said it before the season and now I think the statistics bear me out," said Ayres. "This is an incredibly balanced division. I think that on any given night any team can look like the best team in the South.

"And I mean any team," Ayres emphasized.

"I don't think it's out of the question that Hoffman Estates could knock off Elk Grove Saturday," said Ayres. "Of course, more importantly, we'd have to beat Forest View. If that would happen, I'd guarantee a fantastic game next week."

The Cougars take on Elk Grove next Friday night.

Tonight, though, the South schedule features Forest View at Conant and Schaumburg (1-3) at Prospect. In a nonconference matchup, Rolling Meadows (2-3 and 3-3 over-all) hosts Waukegan West.

Scott Schafer

FOREST VIEW AT CONANT

"Outside of Elk Grove, Conant is probably the best team in our division," said Forest View coach Fred Lussow. "We could just as easily be playing a team that's 6-0 instead of 3-3."

Lussow's praise is more than simple flattery.

"In scouting them personally I have yet to see any glaring weaknesses in any aspect of their game," Lussow continued. "They have excellent material to fill all skill positions."

Conant quarterback Scott Schafer came into his own last Saturday against Hoffman Estates. The senior signal-caller rushed for 106 yards in eight carries and passed for 96 yards more, plus a 66-yard TD toss to Mike Walston.

Forest View got a good effort from junior QB Craig Chiupek, who led the Falcons to their 7-6 win over Meadows last Friday. In addition to Chuipek, Forest View boasts an all-junior backfield of John Miscevich, Rick Gardner and Kurt Jones.

"We know Forest View will come right at us," said Ayres. "On defense they're a big-play team, and on offense they play power football."

Ayres said that regular tight end Dan O'Malley was doubtful for the Forest View game, but he praised the work of sophomore Brad Goodman who filled in capably last week.

SCHAUMBURG AT PROSPECT

Defending South champion Schaumburg is another team that could be undefeated but for a break here or there.

"Football certainly is a game of 'ifs,' that's for sure," said Saxon coach Bob Ferguson.

The Saxons are 3-3 over-all, with a 10-0 loss to Elk Grove, a 7-0 defeat at the hands of Conant, and a 20-14 overtime loss to Forest View. The Schaumburg defense has allowed just 50 points in six games, but the offense has put only 47 on the board.

"I think Schaumburg may be the best team we've played so far," said Prospect coach Gary Grouwinkel, whose Knights are 4-2 over-all. "They may be better than Elk Grove. I think they could have the best backfield in the league. I know they have more speed than Elk Grove."

The Knights this week handed out offensive-player-of-the-week honors to tackle Doug Scott, the first interior lineman to garner the award. Defensive honors went to Dick Hartshorn, who led the team in tackles in the loss to Elk Grove.

"Prospect is a good team, no doubt about it," said Ferguson. "They're solid on offense and well balanced. But I think their forte is passing. We anticipate an aerial attack."

Ferguson's secondary coach, Tom Cerasani, has put together a strong unit, made up primarily of juniors — Tim McGraw, Mark Legan and John Fink.

"Winning our last three games for a 6-3 record would give us a good season," said Ferguson, who saw his Saxons upset Evanston 12-7 last Saturday.

Schaumburg's Steve Knudson maintained his area lead in the rushing derby by gaining 137 yards against Evanston.

ELK GROVE AT HOFFMAN ESTATES

"If there's some way we could get out of playing Elk Grove, I'd like to know about it," joked Hoffman coach Bill Gourley. "They're ranked No. 9 in the state on one poll and I know I don't have to tell the kids that."

Gourley is confident that his kids will meet the challenge of the division-leaders with a grace and poise unique to players their age.

"These kids surprise me every week," said Gourley. "There's never been a game when they didn't give more than 100 per cent and then be ready to come back and do it again the next week. You can't ask for more than that." Gourley's Hawks own a 2-4 record over-all, including a 7-6 loss to Palatine in the season opener and a 28-14 loss last week at Conant.

In the Conant game, Hoffman led 7-6 at halftime and was actually deadlocked 14-all with nine minutes left to play. Two late Cougar TDs — one on the game's final play — decided the outcome.

Quarterback-safety John Staback again led his team's effort, completing seven of nine passes and making innumerable tackles. Another standout on offense and defense was Bob Kearley, who is the MSL's fifth-leading rusher with 418 yards.

"Kearley is a hard-working kid," said Gourley. "He's a fine runner but he helps a lot on defense, too."

Elk Grove coach Schnake said his team isn't so concerned about clinching the title yet.

"We're just trying to remain a steady football team," said the coach whose team has won five in a row since an opening loss to Elgin-Larkin. "If we do, then winning will take care of itself."

North race features three games

and Jason Slezak."

Turning his thoughts to Fremd, Haines noted:

"They're extremely strong. They have an army of backs, a quarterback who doesn't throw a lot but throws very accurately, and an excellent defense too."

The nine-year series between the two schools favors the Cardinals 6-3. Arlington has also won the last two times out.

HERSEY AT PALATINE

The Huskie-Pirate rivalry is also a lopsided one, with Hersey owning a 5-2 edge including triumphs the past three years.

But Palatine coach Arv Herstedt is using neither this nor his club's 1-5 overall record as a yardstick for measuring tonight's outcome. "We always play well against Hersey. We get up for them. They've proven they are the team to beat in the North and it's a challenge to play them again."

Herstedt also pointed to a sentimental aspect of the game. "This will be the last game ever at Ost Field. The lights will be taken down afterwards and moved to a site by our new high school. That might help us . . . playing for the last time here and against Hersey."

Huskie head man Joe Gliwa doesn't appear to be taking the Pirates lightly. "We never regard them in that way," he said. "We can't afford to. We're meeting them under circumstances similar to last year, with us shooting for a title and them just aching to knock us off."

Both Herstedt and Gliwa were in agreement on another point too. Their respective teams have come a long way this season.

"All I regret is not playing better in September," said Herstedt. "there was a time when we couldn't do anything right. But I don't regret any of the preparation we've put into this year, wouldn't have done it any differently and I feel very good about how we'll finish up this season and continue to play on into next fall."

"We've come quite a way since the beginning of the season," said Gliwa. "We're starting to show some very promising signs now. The last couple of weeks especially have done a lot toward instilling confidence in our kids."

BUFFALO GROVE AT WHEELING

Each passing season may tend to dim the fact that the domain now incorporated by Buffalo Grove High School once was Wheeling's. But as long as such ex-Wildcat coaches as Grant Blany and Dennis Riccio and such former star 'Cat athletes as Jon Hittman are on hand to direct the Bison grid fortunes, there will be a strong rivalry between these two institutions.

And that is what head coach Blaney is afraid of.

"Our loss to Hersey last week was probably the greatest confidence builder that could happen to Wheeling," Blaney noted. "If they nursed any fear or apprehension about playing us before the Hersey game, it certainly has all disappeared by now."

"In fact, I'm the one who's mostly concerned at this point," the Bison boss continued. "A win over us would make their season and that's highly possible if we come out against Wheeling as flat as we did last week."

For reference, Blaney need only dig back one season, when a highly touted Bison eleven just barely edged out a winless Wildcat gang, 10-6.

In the previous year, the first one of varsity competition for Buffalo Grove, they throttled the 'Cats 34-7.

Feller to speak at Arlington Park

Baseball Hall of Famer Bob Feller will be the guest speaker at the Mid-American Motorcycle & Accessory Show luncheon Saturday, Nov. 6 at the Arlington Park Hilton.

While a pitcher with the Cleveland Indians he threw three no-hitters, held the major league record for most strikeouts in a season and once had his fastball clocked at 98.6 miles per hour. He was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1962.

The Mid-America Motorcycle & Accessory Show opens at the Arlington Park Exposition Center in Arlington Heights on Nov. 4 and will be the first stock motorcycle extravaganza held in the Chicago area.

The show runs through Nov. 7.

Katzler to be honored

John E. Katzler of Mount Prospect will be among 12 former Lake Forest College athletes inducted into the school's Athletic Hall of Fame today during Homecoming festivities.

Katzler, a member of the Class of 1951, received five letters in basketball and was the captain his senior year. He also played baseball.

Voted all-city at Waller High School in Chicago, Katzler was the school's leading scorer and held the single game scoring record with 68 points.

He remains active in sports, officiating college and high school basketball games.

Dominick's holds benefit day

Dominick's Finer Foods stores in Palatine and Rolling Meadows will have a Benefit Day on Monday, Nov. 1 to help raise money for the Palatine Celtic Soccer program and the St. Collette's Sports Program.

The Dominick's at 223 Northwest Hwy. in Palatine will donate five per cent of the purchases made by friends of Palatine Celtic Soccer to that program.

Friends of St. Collette may have five per cent of their purchases at Dominick's, 3131 Kirchoff Rd. in Rolling Meadows, donated to that program.

Dominick's Benefit Day ID slips may be received from both groups.

Coach's Day at Northwestern

A Coach's Day, to acquaint coaches at all levels of athletics with the most up-to-date information in the critical aspects of athletic training and sports medicine, will be held Sunday, Oct. 31 at Northwestern University's Wisbolt Hall in downtown Chicago.

The cost of the clinic, which runs from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., is $10 per person.

For further information contact Dr. David Bachman at 649-7947.

From campuses nationwide

—Georgetown University sophomore Paul Kinyon, a graduate of Fremd High School, has secured a spot on the Hoya varsity crosscountry team which is aiming for their third straight ranking in the national top 20.

Kinyon has been the sixth man for the 3-1 Hoyas this year, taking a 14th place against Villanova and a 15th place in a four-way meet with Navy, New York University and Washington Athletic Club.

—Bob Radzis, a graduate of Elk Grove High School, was graded at 91 per cent for his play on the defensive line for Indiana State University last week. Radzis earned the Efficiency award for the week.

—Ken Breitbeil, who played both football and basketball for Rolling Meadows High School, is a member of the 1976 Wabash College Little Giant football team.

—Roger Wood, a graduate of Wheeling High School and a transfer from the University of Kentucky, will play basketball for North Park College this season.

Wood, a 6-11 center, was an all-state player with Wheeling.

Rich Rosenquist, a graduate of Prospect and a 6-3 forward, is also on the team.

—At Northwestern Pat Geegan, a graduate of Rolling Meadows High School, is the second leading rusher with 229 yards in 61 carries and one touchdown.

—Scott Topczewski, former standout Hersey quarterback, passed for two touchdowns and ran for another to pace Evansville last week and Arlington running back Steve Leonhard has earned a first-string assignment for Valparaiso University.

West bids for second win tonight

The Maine West Warriors, winners for the first time in six tries last week against Niles North, try to make it two in a row tonight as they host Glenbrook South.

South, which lost to Maine East 21-20 after failing to get a two-point conversion, and lost last week to Glenbrook North, 12-6, is 3-3 overall and 2-2 in Central Suburban League South play.

"They're the best 1-5 team in the state," said Schoenwetter of the Warriors. "Their team is just beginning to gel and they're due for a good last half of the season. It's a big game for us."

"We have a lot of respect for the arm of (Bob) Zuccarini," said Schoenwetter of West's premier quarterback, who hasn't had much of a chance to display his talents so far this season. "And they're always a hard-hitting team. We're expecting a very physical game."

South is another team that is just beginning to gel as its mixture of junior and senior starters are beginning to mature. The Titans have been blown out of only one game, a 34-0 loss to New Trier East.

West's girls in swim test

The Maine West girls swim team begins competition in the Central Suburban League conference swim meet with preliminary diving competition tonight at Maine South, beginning at 6:30.

West's hope in diving will be Mary Kay Gerhardt, who's posted a best score of 191.8 this year and could place high in the final standings. The top 12 divers today will compete in the finals, which will be part of the conference swim meet at Maine South Saturday, beginning at 1 p.m.

While the battle for the top spot should be between defending champ Maine South and Glenbrook North, Maine West coach Peggy Carroll has her sights set on a somewhat lower, but more realistic goal.

"If we swim at our speed times, we should place fifth," said Carroll, whose team is 2-4 in league play this year.

Leaders collect tickets to state tournament

Sectional golf trials face 29 area entries today

by KEITH REINHARD
Golf Editor

One last hurdle.

That's what 29 area golfers confront today. On the other side is a ticket to the state championship tourney in Champaign a week from now.

The competition transpiring Friday is identified as Illinois High School Assn. sectional play. There are at least nine teams and a number of additional individual golfers colliding at each of six sectional sites this morning and perhaps two-thirds of them will be storing their clubs, balls and tees after the day is over.

Among the 29 local representatives are four teams — Prospect, Buffalo Grove, Rolling Meadows and Forest View — along with five who qualified at district competition on an individual basis.

The same qualifying rules apply now: The top three teams including ties and the top three individuals not attached to these teams advance.

The Knights and Bison were both district champs. The two schools and St. Viator's Jack Patterson, Hersey's Mark Miesfeldt, Palatine's Nick Zambole and Fremd's Dave Witt will compete in a Barrington-hosted gathering at Biltmore Country Club.

Other entries there are Deerfield, Lake Forest, Maine South, New Trier West, Antioch, Zion-Benton and Waukegan East. The Sequoits were victorious in a Waukegan East-sponsored district.

The Falcons will be hosting their own sectional at Mount Prospect Country Club. District winners gathering there are East Leyden, Addison Trail and Glenbard East, to be joined by Lake Park, West Leyden, Fenton, Proviso West and Wheaton North as well as the Mustangs. Joe Husar of Hoffman Estates, the medalist at the Lake Park district, is the only area individual entry.

Both the Barrington and Forest View sectionals would appear to be up for grabs. The Scouts, Warriors and Cowboys are all capable of challenging solid Prospect and Buffalo Grove teams in what has to be regarded as one of the strongest sectional lineups in the state.

The Falcon gathering has a weaker field but again no clear-cut favorite. Glenbard, Proviso and Addison clubs are good but vulnerable. Forest View, with its familiarity to the layout, is a definite threat.

The Prospect contingent is comprised of Scott Spielmann, Dave Fatina, Paul Moats, Steve Kurka, Mike Dee and Bob Lopotko. Representing the Bison are Mike Marshall, Dan Krolack, Al Sloat, Doug Warman, Rich Peterson and Bob Hoffman, the medalist performer at Deerfield's district.

Competing for the Mustangs are Scott Sander, Brett Burkhardt, Rich Vojtsek, Ken Miller, Dave Creagh and Dave Sloan. The Falcon entry consists of Joe Carcerano, Don DeGrande, Jim Moran, Tom Martindale, Chris Wilk and Steve Ford.

Camp Duncan schedules trials

The Camp Duncan YMCA Swim Team Parents' Assn. announced the following schedule for time trials to select the team to represent Camp Duncan for the 1976-77 season.

Cadets (8-under) — Monday, Oct. 25 and Wednesday, Oct. 27 from 5-7:30 p.m.

Midgets (9-10) and Preps (11-12) — Monday, Oct 25 and Wednesday, Oct. 27 from 5-7:30 p.m. and Thursday, Oct. 28 from 5-6:30 p.m.

Juniors (13-14) and Intermediates (15-18) — Tuesday, Oct. 26 from 5-6:30 p.m. and Friday, Oct. 29 from 5-7:30 p.m.

Swimmers are required to attend all sessions for their age groups. All time trials will be held at the Camp Duncan YMCA pool in Volo. For more information, call John Eliot at 255-2644.

Cards' Holland gets 3rd straight MSL diving title

by BOB GALLAS

Arlington's Kelly Holland took her third straight Mid-Suburban League diving title Thursday night, racking up a new record of 385.05 points to highlight league finals in diving.

Holland's teammates Donna Wasielewski and Kim Bornman took second and fourth respectively while Wheeling's Kathy Lucas took third.

Swimming competition of the MSL conference meet gets underway at 9 a.m. Saturday at Buffalo Grove High School.

Holland's 385.05 shattered her old mark, set last year when she won the conference title with a 316.55.

Wasielewski, a sophomore, racked up 348.90 points en route to second. Lucas scored 319.60 while Bornman, also a sophomore, final points total was 310.40.

All the results were still unofficial as of late last night pending further checking by meet officias.

Thursday's diving finals were originally scheduled to be preliminary competition only, with the top 12 finishers squaring off for competition during Saturday's swimming finals. However league coaches decided late Wednesday night to hold all diving competition on Thursday.

Three divers from Wheeling finished in the top 12, taking third, eighth and ninth. Three Hersey divers also took three of the top 12 spots with finishes of sixth, seventh and 10th.

Rounding out the top 12 in conference competition are: 5th—Kathy Furlong, Buffalo Grove (274.90); 6th—Lisa Hansen, Hersey (269.55); 7th—Jodi Palmer Hersey (257.35); 8th—Linda Konrad, Wheeling (250.35); 9th—Michele Lucas, Wheeling (246.20); 10th—Lisa Palmer, Hersey (245.05); 11th—Carolyn Devine, Rolling Meadows (231.20); 12th—Mary Kay McShane, Rolling Meadows (226.20).

Baseball season's much too long

Dear Sirs:

As I write this, the Yankees are losing their second game in Cincinnati. Hopefully, the World Series will still be going strong when this letter is (hopefully, also) printed. Make no mistake, I am not a Yankee fan. I just want to see them playing baseball in the snow.

The baseball season has to be shortened. I remember the White Sox being snowed out of a game or two in the spring. The same thing should happen in the late fall so that baseball will wise up and return to the 154-game schedule.

I remember back in the 1950s how the shorter schedule allowed baseball to finish in warm weather. The Series was usually over in the first week of October. I'll never forget the final game between the Dodgers and the Sox in 1959. It was Oct. 8.

I hope it snows and sleets so bad in New York and Cincinnati that they have to move the final games to the Astrodome. Maybe that embarrassment will force baseball to wise up.

NEW COACH WELCOMED

Dear Sir,

In this era of the wishbone, the veer and all the other running offenses in high school football, I can't begin to tell you how much I have enjoyed the innovative style of play at Prospect High School this year. The school lost a great coach and a fine gentleman in David Keefe, who died of cancer last year. In his place they hired another outstanding man.

Gary Grouwinkel has proven to be just what was needed to give the Prospect program — which was saddened by the loss of its former coach — a lift. As I understand, Grouwinkel has taken complete control of the offense and the fans have seen more than their money's worth. Unlike a lot of teams, Prospect passes, passes, passes. They use a variety of plays that keep the opposition guessing and keep the fans on the edge of their seats. Prospect was supposed to be in a rebuilding season, but Grouwinkel and his staff nearly made them a contender. Keep up the good work, coach. You've brought an exciting brand of football to the area at a time when some enthusiasm was really needed.

Arlington schedules cage signup

The Arlington Heights Youth Basketball Assn. has scheduled a registration this Monday from 7-9 p.m. at Frontier Park to accommodate those youths in the 7-8 grade levels interested in playing in the new AHYBA basketball skills through organized season. It will be co-sponsored by Latof Chevrolet and the Jaycees.

Adequate facilities combined with the competent coaching assures each youth of the opportunity to develop his basketball kills through organized team play. Also, each youth registering is guaranteed the opportunity to play in each game in which his team competes. The program will start in January.

Registration Chairman Jerry Peterson has indicated that a limited number of vacancies remain unfilled for team rosters in the 4-5-6 grade levels. Interested boys should contact Peterson at 359-9289 to assure participation. However, registrations will be accepted at Frontier Park on Monday if vacancies remain.

Scheduled practices for the 4-5-6 grades teams will begin Nov. 8. League competition is scheduled to begin Nov. 19.

Anyone interested in becoming head coaches or assistant coaches should contact Dick Benoit, association vice president, at 253-4499.

Gottschalk one pin from 300

Billy Gottschalk came within one pin of perfection Tuesday night at Hoffman Lanes in Hoffman Estates.

Gottschalk, a 183-average kegler, buried 11 straight balls into the 1-3 pocket for strikes in the finale of three games.

The 25-year-old righthander was almost too overpowering as his 12th ball followed the same groove, but left a solid 10 pin standing in defiance.

The 299 score ties the top effort at Hoffman, matched last year by Ted Geiersbach who rolls in the Paddock Classic Traveling League.

Gottschalk added games of 189 and 215 for a 703 series. His five-man team recorded the top scratch series at Hoffman with an 1146.

Steinmetz principal new IHSA president

Joseph J. Sirchio, principal of Chicago Steinmetz, was elected as the 21st president of the Illinois High School Asen's. (IHSA) board of directors at its recent organizational meeting. Sirchio, who joined the board in January of 1974, is only the second principal from the Chicago public school system to serve as IHSA Board president.

Elected vice president was Nicholas Mannos, principal of Skokie (Niles West). Mannos was elected to the board in 1975. Don Mellon, principal of Pittsfield, was elected secretary. Recently-elected board members seated were: John Dowling of Watseka, John Lavvelle of Henry-Senachwine and David McClintock of Nashville. Raymond E. Collier of Aurora East serves the Board as the association's treasurer.

Meet Hattie—92 years young

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Mrs. Hattie Arnold, who was born in 1884, came to Arlington Heights for the first time last weekend.

She was here to celebrate the birthday of Mrs. Glen Veerhey, also of Arlington Heights, and while in town she saw the Black Hawks but missed a chance to see Elvis Presley.

She was impressed with Bobby Orr but more excited when the police stopped the car on the way to the Stadium.

Mrs. Veerhey said, "We'd have taken her too see Elvis but we didn't have an extra ticket. If she had gone that would have been four generations all together."

Hattie, from her home in Lafayette, Ind., did not seem to mind. She first recalled the brush with Chicago's finest.

"We were getting near the Stadium and I was looking ahead to where we were going," Hattie said. "The law was sitting right there.

"I thought for sure I was a goner."

Far from being a goner, Hattie proceeded on to her first look at the Stadium.

"Those Black Hawks sure know how to play," she said. "I didn't see anybody knocking 'em down or dragging 'em out but they were really exciting.

"I didn't go to see a fight, though, because I feel bad when the players get hurt.

"And that Bobby Orr. Did he impress me? I'll say he did."

Hattie had to miss the World Series to see the Black Hawks, though.

"Yes, I wanted to watch that. I watch all the sporting events I can. If they're on TV, I watch 'em.

"Cincinnati's got 'em now, 3-0. I heard it's sort of rainy in New York now so they may not play tonight."

Then Hattie commented on Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson's handling of pitchers.

"I wonder sometimes about the pitching," she said. "It seems like they take 'em out too early sometimes.

"But he must know what he's doing. They keep winning."

Hattie, who lives by herself in Lafayette, is a fan of Jack Brickhouse, Jim West and says she especially likes Wally Phillips on WGN radio.

"I came to Chicago once many years ago," Hattie said. "My, it has changed so much. There are so many things to see.

"My eyes aren't very good and I broke my hip in '64 but I still get around. I have to keep going to stay on top."

Girls launch action in district tennis

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

Buffalo Grove, put into the Glenbrook North district by what coach Betty Pruitt called "the luck of the rubber band" will join the rest of the Mid-Suburban League as the girls state tennis tournament begins today at 30 sites.

Defending MSL champion Arlington and runner up Prospect will be the top teams at the Prospect District.

Also in the field at Prospect will be Forest View, Hersey, Elk Grove, Rolling Meadows, Sacred Heart, Fenton, Maine North and Maine West.

The first two rounds will begin at 2 p.m. today and continue with the final rounds Saturday at 9 a.m.

Buffalo Grove has been placed in what is considered the strongest district in the state at Glenbrook North.

Joining the Bison will be Palatine, Wheeling and Stevenson. The tennis powers include Deerfield, Highland Park, Lake Forest and Glenbrook North.

"Several of the teams have a chance to win the state," Pruitt said. "They all have strong players."

Pruitt remarked on the procedure used for placement of teams by saying, "They stick pins in a map and stretch a rubber band around them. Last year we went to Prospect but this year the (Glenbrook North) rubber band stretched all the way out here."

The Glenbrook North district will begin today at 1 p.m. and conclude Saturday at 9 a.m.

Conant will host their own district, beginning at 2 p.m. today and finishing Saturday at 9 a.m.

Singles competition today will be held at Hoffman Estates and doubles at Conant.

In the Conant field will be Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Crown, Dundee, Elgin, Elgin-Larkin, Elgin Academy and Lake Park.

Fremd will be the only MSL representative at the Crystal Lake district, which includes Barrington, Lake Zurich, McHenry and Wauconda.

Each team will be allowed to enter two singles players and two doubles teams in the district. The winner and runnerup in each bracket will advance to the state finals next week at Arlington.

Although Oak Park-River Forest, who has won every state championship since the tournament began in 1972, may defend their team title, a new singles champion will be crowned.

Suzie Replogle, who won three state singles championships, has left the title vacant with her graduation.

WANTED
SERIOUS PHEASANT HUNTERS

Kishwaukee Valley Sportsmens Club Offers 700 Acres of Prime Bird Shooting Just 1½ Tollway Hours From Downtown Chicago

Let's face it. Illinois pheasant hunting isn't what it used to be. There's less land to hunt on. Less birds than before. Less of just about everything. That's why we formed the Kishwaukee Valley Sportsmens Club. We wanted the same kind of hunting we enjoyed 20 years ago. We wanted good land that we could come back to year after year. And that's what we have.

6 Months of Controlled Hunting. From October 1st to March 31st we offer the finest upland bird shooting in Illinois. We stock our own pheasants and Hungarian partridge and during duck season our prime flight path location means daily limits for hunting members.

Act Now. Membership Is Limited. Don't get us wrong. We aren't an exclusive club. Far from it in fact. But we aren't about to oversubscribe our membership as some clubs have. We're proud of what we have and we want to make it better not necessarily bigger. So write or call us today for full membership details or to arrange for a free inspection of our land.

Kishwaukee Valley Sportsmens Club
10015 Wrights Road, Harvard, Illinois 60033
☐ Please rush me complete membership information together with an application form.
☐ I'm interested in a free inspection of the club's land and facilities.

JUNIOR LEAGUE
Colts 44, Cowboys 16

The league-leading Colts scored 34 points in the first half to completely dominate the Cowboys. Nick Kangas took the opening kickoff and raced 60 yards for the first touchdown. Gary Berman scored on a 54-yard run and a 35-yard punt return. David Kangas scored 12 points on runs of 16 and three yards, and Doug Brown ran 53 yards for another touchdown. The Colts powerful line of David King, Chip Michel, Tony Mirabelli, Joe Finnegan, Jeff McGinnis, Kyle Grove and Kurt Peterson again ripped big holes in the defense. For the Cowboys, Ross Barone scored on a 10-yard pass and Larry Gorey on a 12-yard pass. Pete Lydon carried for both two-point conversions. Dave Kubacki, Brock Cummings and Jeff Brinkman were outstanding on defense.

Falcons 30, Cardinals 0

Mike Zablotny of the Falcons came to the game after beating the flu, and continued his winning ways against an improving Cardinal eleven. He scored two touchdowns on long runs, and was devastating on defense. Terry Clerkin scored the other two touchdowns, one on a pass interception and the other on a long run. Greg Andejeski scored a two-point conversion on a double reverse. Scott Michalik continues to be outstanding in punting and defense, and made two long runs to aid the Falcon cause. Super subs Rob Laveau and Mike Whisler showed good versatility and team attitude by filling in at more than one position.

Packers 20, Bears 0

The Packers bounced back after their defeat by the Falcons. Doug Kane scored on a 22 yard run, while Dan Dublinski and Tom Ries scored on runs of 7 and 12 yards. Brian Lonergan and Kevin Puckhaber were outstanding on defense. Matt Glassgow provided strong running to put the Packers in scoring position.

VARSITY LEAGUE
Steelers 12, Vikings 8

After trailing 12-0, the Vikings came back to scare the Steelers. Rick Casciaro scored the lone Viking touchdown, and Dave Heinrick scored the conversion on a pop pass from quarterback Tim Kirkpatrict. Tom Mueller recovered an on-side kick after the touchdown, but the Vikings were unable to sustain the needed drive. No details are available on the Steeler performance.

Browns 42, Eagles 0

An undermanned Eagle squad was beaten badly by the powerful Browns, who were able to send two strong teams against them. Rick Mianulli scored twice on a 55-yard run and a 55 punt return. Mike Errico caught a touchdown pass, as did Kraig Thome. Tim Jauch ran for another score, and Rich Mazzolini intercepted a pass and ran it back 25 yards for a touchdown. Jauch, Dan Humbert and Phil Sammons ran for conversions.

Saints 34, Giants 8

The league-leading Saints showed why they're in first place. Lance Pearson got things rolling by scampering around end for 16 yards to set up a pass from Tom Sanders to Pete Walsh for a touchdown in the first quarter. Mike Bonogura went 10 yards to the one yard line, fumbled the ball into the end zone, where Saint Dave Mahon recovered for another score. Brad Rosley blocked two punts in the second quarter, setting up a touchdown for his three yard run. Jim Ailshie made a two-point conversion. In the second half, Tom Weber intercepted a Giant pass and raced 55 yards. The final Saint score came on a 70-yard kickoff return by Ailshie. Dave Woods, Paul Eichelman, Dave Ischinger and Steve Topczewski were outstanding on defense. No details are available on the Giants' performance.

Bowling

At Schaumburg Lanes

The Lucky Strikes threw the high team game of 591 and the Woodsplitters the high team series of 1702 in the Matinee Ladies League at Schaumburg Lanes.

Leading bowlers were Judie Dunne 179-536, Helen Guiliano 179-507, Joan Butenschoen 189-497, Barb Varada 187-478, Bonnie Murphy 171-471, Lorie Tokarz 181 and Louise Shields 173.

At Elk Grove Bowl

Dave Abernethy had the high series for the men with a 599-215 and Mabel Smith led the women with a 550-212 in the Mixed Nuts League at Elk Grove Bowl.

Other high scores for the women were Louise Rudd 213 and Ardell Bleatman 521-189.

High men included John Bleatman 575-201 and Dan Theisan 560-230.

CAR CORNER
with George Orth & Roger Nick

Keep your car's gasoline tank filled in the summer time, in order to minimize wasteful evaporation of fuel while the car stands in the hot sun. It turns out that evaporation is greater in a tank that is half empty, so keeping the tank full saves gasoline. The same is true of winter. If you keep the tank full in winter, you avoid condensation of moisture in the gasoline, and possible freezing of this water in the fuel line.

For the best advice on how to care for your GM car in winter, visit RAY OLDSMOBILE, 510 Busse Hwy., Park Ridge! Our factory-trained technicians can keep your car in top running condition at all times and will give you many "professional" tips on how to cut repair bills. As the largest retail OLDS dealer in Illinois, we have made a commitment of complete satisfaction for all work done. George Orth and Roger Nick, our service managers, are always available to make sure each customer is satisfied. Call us at 696-3200. We are open Mondays through Fridays from 7 A.M. until 6 P.M.

HANDY HINT:
Never fill the gasoline to the brim of the neck in the summer; expansion from heat could cause the gas to overflow.

Federation cuts connection with antilitter group

The National Wildlife Federation said it has severed its connection with the Keep America Beautiful Inc. organization in a disagreement about litter problem solutions.

Thomas Kimball, executive vice president of the federation, announced the federation's withdrawal from the Keep America Beautiful national advisory council.

"We think the best approach is to cut down the source of litter — the millions of throw-away containers that are produced each year," Kimball said.

"The container manufacturers and most Keep America Beautiful officials, on the other hand, put their emphasis on persuading people to stop littering. We feel they are attacking the symptoms rather than the cause of the litter problem and that this confuses the public about what really needs to be done."

Coalition rips Ford on environment

A coalition of environmental groups meeting in Washington, D.C., Wednesday issued a statement criticizing President Ford's record on clean air and other environmental issues, but they stopped short of endorsing Jimmy Carter.

Among the Chicago area environmentalists who supported the statements as individuals are Catherine Quigg of the Pollution & Environmental Problems organization, Palatine; Jan Schakowsky of the Illinois Public Action Council; David Stahr of Citizens for a Better Environment, Daniel Lurey of the Hoffman Estates Environmental Commission; and Dorcas Thompson of the Des Plaines Valley chapter, Sierra Club.

Drama workshop slated at library

Ridgely Jackson, a teacher at Olive School in Arlington Heights, will present a workshop in developmental drama at 1:15 p.m. Monday, in the Dunton Room of Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton.

The program is open to the public and is sponsored by Friends of Gifted Children, an organization which promotes programs and services for gifted and talented students.

Ms. Jackson will explain and demonstrate how developmental drama helps students understand changing roles without losing self-image.
